Women Army officers eligible for permanent commission: SC

Chandrachud dismisses govt.'s view that women are physiologically weaker

KRISHNADAS RAJAGOPAL
NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Monday dismissed the Union government's submissions that women are physiologically weaker than men as a "sex stereotype" and declared that Short Service Commission (SSC) women officers are eligible for permanent commission and command posts in the Army irrespective of their years of service.

"Women officers of the Indian Army have brought laurels to the force... Their track record of service to the nation is beyond reproach. To cast aspersions on their abilities on the ground of gender is an affront not only to their dignity as women but to the dignity of the members of the Indian Army – men and women – who serve as equal citizens in a common mission. The time has come for a realisation that women officers in the Army are not adjuncts to a male-dominated establishment, whose presence must be 'tolerated' within narrow confines," a Bench of Justices D.Y. Chandrachud and Hemant Gupta observed in a 54-page judgment.

The verdict came on a nearly 10-year-old appeal filed by the government against a March 12, 2010 decision of the Delhi High Court to grant SSC women officers permanent commission. The Supreme Court ordered the government to implement its judgment in three months.

The order castigated the government for submitting a note containing written submissions portraying women as physiologically unfit for answering the "call beyond duty" of the Army. The note had shown women officers in a poor light, saying isolation and hardships would eat into their resolve and they would have to heed to the call of pregnancy, childbirth and family. The note had mentioned that women ran the risk of capture by enemy and being taken prisoner of war.

Justice Chandrachud, who wrote the judgment, countered that 30% of women officers were deployed in conflict zones. He said the note screamed of the age-old patriarchal notion that domestic obligations rested only with women. The court found the remarks in the note not only constitutionally invalid but also discriminatory, affecting the dignity of women officers.

Shaheen Bagh: protest, but don't block roads, court tells protesters

Senior advocate Sanjay Hegde appointed interlocutor

LEGAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Monday conceded that mothers, children and ordinary people of Shaheen Bagh and Delhi had a right to protest against the Citizenship (Amendment) Act, even as it expressed concern over their blocking of public areas.

"Democracy works on different views. We have no quibble on that. You want to protest, no problem. You don't want to wait for our judgment on the validity of the CAA but want to have a social build-up against the legislation, we have no problem... We do not mind if a 1,000 sites are created, but our limited concern is whether you could protest without blocking roads and entering public areas... With every right there comes a responsibility too," Justice Sanjay Kishan Kaushal observed.

It appointed senior advocate Sanjay Hegde to act as an interlocutor, along with advocate Sadhana Ramachandran, to convey its apprehension to the protesters and suggest to them to move to an area where they could continue the protests but not inconvenience public movement. The court left it to Mr. Hegde to approach former bureaucrat Wajahat Habibullah to join them.

Right to protest

"My colleague Sadhana Ramachandran and I accept the responsibility... We will be meeting all parties with a view to assisting them to resolve their issues in a manner that respects both the right to protest and requirements of orderly civic life," Mr. Hegde said in a statement.

During the hearing, Justice K.M. Joseph, on the Bench, stressed that the "right to protest is recognised all over the world. We have a fundamental right to assemble. The right is only subject to security and public order".

Justice Joseph was responding to submissions made by Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for the Delhi Police, that children and women are used as a "shield" by the protesters.

Fresh death warrants issued for March 3 in Nirbhaya case

SOIBAM ROCKY SINGH
NEW DELHI

A Delhi court on Monday issued fresh death warrants for March 3 at 6 a.m. against all the four convicts in the December 2012 Nirbhaya gang rape and murder case.

All convicts are "to be hanged by the neck until they are dead on March 3, at 6 a.m.," it said. The order was passed by Additional Sessions Judge Dharmender Rana pursuant to pleas by Tihar Jail and the victim's parents, seeking issuance of a fresh date to hang them.

This is the third time the court is issuing death warrants against Mukesh Kumar Singh, 32, Pawan Gupta, 25, Vinay Kumar Sharma, 26, and Akshay Kumar, 31. The trial court had issued the first death warrants for January 22, which were later postponed to February 1.

On Monday, the court discharged advocate Vrinda Grover as counsel for Mukesh after he asked for a change of his advocate. It appointed legal aid counsel advocate Ravi Qazi to represent him.

The court was also informed by counsel for Akshay that in his earlier mercy petition, owing to poverty and ignorance, the complete facts could not be brought before the President, and he had prepared a fresh mercy petition that would soon be moved before the President.

Another video surfaces of 'police brutality' in Jamia Millia Islamia

Clip shows students with folded hands in front of policemen; force refutes claims

NEW DELHI

Though several videos of alleged police brutality inside Jamia Millia Islamia (JMI) premises, including its library, have been doing the rounds since December 15 last year, the police have refuted all claims.

The latest video related to the incident of "violence" surfaced on Monday in which students can be seen folding hands in front of policemen as they are attacked by men carrying sticks and wearing riot gear.

In the latest video, purportedly from the old library, women students can be seen leaving the library with hands folded, followed by male students as policemen charge at them.

In the video, Delhi Police officers can be seen attacking the students brutally with sticks inside the library.

The video also shows students trying to flee to save themselves.

Former Deputy Commissioner of Police (South East) Chinmoy Biswal had denied that the force had entered the library. While speaking to the media two days after the violence, when 10 people had been arrested on charges of rioting among others, Mr. Biswal had said:

Forensic examination

Special Commissioner of Police (Crime) Praveer Ranjan said all the videos received by Delhi Police, including the latest ones, were being examined and would be sent for forensic examination. "The Special Investigation Team probing the violence will analyse the videos and establish the sequence of events," he said.

Another claim made by Delhi Police, which raised questions, was denial over opening fire on December 15 when the anti-Citizenship (Amendment) Act protests were under way. The police maintained that no gunshots were fired till a video surfaced in January showing policemen opening fire.

In the video, two policemen can be seen pulling out their service pistols and firing three shots in the direction of the protesters and then running away. The video was shot on Mathura Road on December 15.

The police later called it "an act of self-defence".

At the outset, the court was of the view that the student ought to have filed a civil suit if he was seeking compensation as his claims would have to be proved through evidence.

"These are matters of evidence. Why are you not filing a suit for damages? On the basis of annexures in a writ claims cannot be proved," said a Bench of Chief Justice D.N. Patel and Justice C. Hari Shankar.

"It has become a fashion in Delhi to file a writ for everything," the Bench also said.

Both legs fractured

The plea by Shyama Mujeeb, a Jamia student, has alleged that his both legs got fractured in the "brutal violence carried out" by security personnel. He contended that he was studying in the library on December 15, 2019, when police personnel entered the building and allegedly beat up the students there.

Advocate Nabila Hasan, representing the student, contended that CCTV footage showed the police entering the library and beating up the students.

Petition in HC seeks court-monitored CBI probe into alleged molestation of students during an event

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

The Delhi High Court on Monday issued notice to the Centre, the Central Bureau of Investigation and the Delhi Police on a petition seeking a court-monitored CBI probe into the alleged molestation of students during a cultural festival at DU's Gargi College on February 6.

The police had registered an FIR on February 9 and arrested a few persons, he said.

from the authorities and posted the case for further hearing on April 30.

'No action yet'

The court was hearing a petition by advocate M.L. Sharma, who claimed that nothing had been done till now.

The police had registered an FIR on February 9 and arrested a few persons, he said.

The plea was filed on Thursday after the Supreme Court declined to entertain the petition and asked the petitioner to move the High Court instead.

In his petition, Mr. Sharma sought the preservation of all video recordings and CCTV camera footage of the college campus. The plea also sought the arrest of those who are behind the "planned criminal conspiracy".

Ten people, between 18 and 25 years, were arrested on February 12 in connection with the incident. However, they were released on bail on February 13, the next day. Two others were arrested the same day.

According to the police, over 11 teams were looking at technical details and also visited various sites in the NCR in connection with identification of the suspects and investigation into the case.

Delhi Police had registered a case on February 10 after it received a complaint from the college authorities.

A case was registered at Hauz Khas police station under IPC Sections 452, 354, 509 and 34.

The JNU Students' Union on Monday called for a protest demanding the release of university student Sharjeel Imam, arrested on sedition charge last month, and Kafeel Khan, booked under the National Security Act for his speech during an anti-CAA protest at Aligarh Muslim University on December 12.

The protest was scheduled to be a march from Mandi House to Jantar Mantar but the students called off their march and headed directly to Jantar Mantar.

Speaking at the protest, JNUSU president Aishe Ghosh alleged that the government in power was targeting people for unjustified reasons and that "hate speech" was being celebrated in the country.

"Nowadays, hate speeches are being celebrated in the country. However, if people, specifically people from the Muslim community, raise their voice against the government, they are targeted and a sedition case is slapped against them," Ms. Ghosh said.

The protesters drew examples of various speeches delivered by the members of the ruling party in the run-up to the Delhi elections and asked as why no action was taken against them.

The students also called for a repeal of the amended Citizenship Act, a stop to the NPR and other draconian laws. They demanded that all dissenters jailed under sedition and other draconian acts be released.

China outbreak taking toll on local economy, warn traders

STAFF REPORTER

NEW DELHI

Highlighting the effect that the outbreak of COVID-19 in China is having on trade and industry in India, the Confederation of All India Traders (CAIT) on Monday wrote to Union Commerce Minister Piyush Goyal seeking the government's intervention.

"India's trade and industry are highly dependent on China... We import finished goods that are redistributed; raw material that is used for producing goods; and spare parts that are used in assembling goods," read the letter. China has stopped supplying goods, the letter read, adding that importers usually keep two months worth of stock as buffer but if the situation persists then the supply chain will likely be affected.

The CAIT has called upon the government to convene a meeting of trade and industry representatives to come up with remedial measures to ensure uninterrupted supply chain. It also sought a "package" for traders and small industries to help strengthen their capacity. It added that the government should suggest ways to ensure that over-dependence on any country should not take place in the future as it could "cripple our economy".

We were on a mission: rescue team that went to Wuhan

In my mind we were soldiers working for our country, says team leader

BINDU SHAJAN PERAPPADAN
NEW DELHI

"This was a mission not a trip," said Pulin Gupta, professor of Internal Medicine at RML Hospital, who headed the first medical team that evacuated 324 Indians from Wuhan, China – epicentre of the COVID-19 outbreak that has now spread to over 25 countries.

"It was all worth it when we saw the reaction of the Indians we were rescuing. There was cheer and even applause as the flight took to the air... there were many moist eyes," he added.

The real work of the medical team (three doctors and two nursing staff) started just before the 324 Indians came on-board. "We had stocked up on medicines, personal safety equipment, emergency medicines and had sessions with staff on what the protocol would be. The Air India staff was also informed about the virus and how best to protect themselves. When our citizens boarded the plane, we had to evaluate their medical condition, ensure their safe trip back home and be sure to minimise the spread of any infection. That was a challenge," said Dr. Gupta.

He added that besides logistics, the anxiety of going into an area which was dealing with a relatively little known virus was not easy.

"Though we knew that fatality was relatively low compared to similar strains, we were still anxious. However, when my mother told me that the country needs me now, all last-minute anxieties vanished and I was able to convey that confidence to my team also. In my mind we were soldiers working for our country. That in a nutshell was our frame of mind," said Dr. Gupta.

After returning to India, the team was kept in isolation for 14-days.

"But this is all part of our duty to help our brothers and sisters in distress. This was no time to think about risks. We were aware that prevention is the best cure.

We also prepared the blueprint for the second Indian team which went into Wuhan for the next batch of Indians," said Dr. Gupta.

On Monday, Union Minister for Health and Family Welfare Harsh Vardhan presented the team from RML Hospital and Safdarjung Hospital, an appreciation letter from Prime Minister Narendra Modi for their "grit, determination and compassion", and successfully evacuating a total of 645 India citizens and seven Maldivian citizens from Wuhan.

The appreciation letter from the PM read: "In such a scenario, the evacuation of Indian citizens in distress has not only given relief to those rescued but has also reassured the Indian diaspora settled across the globe that in time of crisis, the entire nation stands firmly united. Your indefatigable effort inspires every citizen to serve the nation with dedication and commitment".

As per the Health Ministry, 3,21,375 passengers from 2,996 flights and 6,387 passengers from 125 ships have been screened till date.

A total of 2,571 samples across 15 laboratories have been tested and only three samples have come back positive for COVID-19.

I consider myself lucky to get party ticket: richest AAP MLA

STAFF REPORTER

NEW DELHI

Newly elected MLA from Mundka Dharampal Lakra, who is the richest AAP legislator, said he considered himself lucky to be given a ticket by the party. Mr. Lakra, a businessman, left the Congress in 2015 and joined AAP in 2017.

He has movable and immovable assets worth ₹250 crore and his wife has assets of around ₹45 crore, according to his affidavit submitted to the Election Commission.

Mr. Lakra said, "I was with the Congress from 2013 to 2015. Before that I was not with any political party. I joined AAP in 2017 and the party decided to give me a ticket. I consider myself very lucky that the party chose me." He said he switched to AAP because of its ideology, image and its work. "I was impressed by their good work and their type of politics," he said.

Work for vikas
The MLA said he would work for the development of rural areas. "I will work for the vikas of the villages and also work on the Sports University, which has already been approved by the government," Mr. Lakra said.

"We will also make schools in the area better and provide better medical facilities. This will be my focus area," he added.

The AAP MLA who lives with his wife, three children and their families, said he used to be involved in social work even before he joined the Congress. When asked about getting a party ticket less than three years of joining AAP, Mr. Lakra said, "I was doing work on the ground and the party was impressed with it."

Mr. Lakra, 61, was born in Mundka. He said his father did farming and was also a businessman. The MLA did a diesel mechanic course from ITI Pusa in 1978-1979. "My three sons are into property dealing," he said, adding that they also have few farm fields in Delhi.

and MLA Raghav Chadha addressed the farmers and supported their demands.

Ravi Kumar, a farmer leader, said they welcomed the support of AAP. "The officials know our demands for a long time but they are not taking any action," he alleged, adding that farmers should not be made to pay the price of development.

Party will focus on strengthening its base, says Sanjay Singh

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

NOIDA

Sanjay Singh, AAP in-charge of Uttar Pradesh unit, on Monday said the party would start a membership drive in the State from February 23, starting from Lucknow.

The party aims to take the "Arvind Kejriwal model of development" to Uttar Pradesh and strengthen its base across the 403 Assembly Constituencies, he said, adding that the membership drive will end on March 23.

He added it was for the party's high command to decide on whether or not it will contest the State elections in 2022. "During the membership drive, people can become members of the party by physically reaching out to our offices and getting receipts, by giving missed calls or by enrolling through our website," Mr. Singh said.

Around 5,000 posters and banners will be put up in each constituency, totalling over 20 lakh across the State to talk about our model of politics and development, Mr. Singh said, adding that the party has 60 active district-level units in Uttar Pradesh while maintaining presence in all districts.

He said there are around a dozen AAP leaders hailing from various places in U.P. who have been elected to the Delhi Assembly.

They include Ministers Manish Sisodia, Gopal Rai, Satyendar Jain, Imran Hussain, among others. These leaders will be felicitated in their hometowns and awareness will be raised regarding the "Kejriwal model of development".

Mr. Singh also criticised Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath over a host of issues, especially the law and order situation in the State.

Stating that Delhi has sent out a message that "politics of hate" will not work against "politics of work", the AAP MP claimed that only a party which gives good education, healthcare, cheap power and water and helps the cause of the common person will win the elections.

Farmers storm Noida Authority complex, seek compensation

They demand increased payout in compensation for acquired land and residential plots

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

GAZIABAD

Hundreds of farmers from 81 local villages stormed the Noida Authority complex on Monday demanding 64% increase in compensation for acquired land, residential plots of the size equal to 10% of acquired land, and settlement of issues regarding houses which fall in the abadi land (rural land used for residential purposes).

These have been long-standing demands, but there has been a spurt in the protest since last week when 11 farmers were arrested. Keeping this mind, the district administration has imposed Section 144 in Gautam Buddha Nagar for a month. Farmers of Greater Noida have also joined the protest. On Monday, AAP MP Sanjay Singh sident of Bharatiya Kisan Sangathan, said the Authority was working as a commercial enterprise and was not looking after the interests of farmers. "The problem arose because the officials did not survey the land properly. Every piece of land, including schools and colleges, in these 81 villages is in the name of the Noida Authority now. We gave up farmland for development, not our residences and educational institutions. When we ask for residential plots, which is our right, they say we are squatting on the Authority's land," he said.

Mr. Yadav said the Allahabad HC had directed the State govt to hike the compensation by 64% in 2011. "Some farmers were even given the amount. However, the majority of them are still waiting."

Following a plea seeking remedial action against existing mechanism used by the Uttar Pradesh government to issue consent to operate to industries in critical or overexploited, critical and semi-critical areas, such consent for commercial purpose cannot be given, in absence of ensuring replenishment of groundwater which is not happening. This situation needs to be remedied."

A Bench headed by NGT Chairperson Justice Adarsh Kumar Goel observed: "It is well known that in OCS [over-exploited, critical and semi-critical] areas, such consent for commercial purpose cannot be given, in absence of ensuring replenishment of groundwater by a mechanical condition of NOC being later obtained from the CGWA."

Development Minister Gopal Rai said: "The new government will reach every level of society and work will be done keeping in mind the needs of the most disadvantaged sections. The people of Delhi have new expectations and are looking forward to delivery of the Delhi's development model today. People are discussing this model across the country and we will ensure its expansion."

"We will work on giving free rides for students in buses. We will look into the feasibility of installing CCTV cameras and more new classrooms. Effective utilisation of School Management Committee funds is also important," Mr. Sisodia added.

An official, close to the government, said there will be fewer big announcements compared to the 2015 government as they will be implementing promises and many of the schemes are already in the pipeline.

Agra readies to receive Trump

City getting a makeover and intelligence sweep ahead of U.S. President's visit

ANUJ KUMAR
GHAZIABAD

The city of Taj is being spruced up to welcome U.S. President Donald Trump and wife Melania on February 24. Shops have been painted in one colour and hoardings are being cut in one format to avoid any visual discomfort to the VVIP couple. Water is being sprayed so that the dust settles. Even trees are being washed. "Even statues at the roundabouts are being given a bath," said an elated Rajesh Kumar, who runs a grocery store near Fatehabad Road. In the Swachh Survekshan 2019 cleanliness rankings, the Agra Municipal Corporation was placed 85th nationwide.

Old-timers remember that Bill Clinton was the last U.S. President to visit the Taj in 2000. Barack Obama's visit in 2015 was cancelled at the last minute, apparently because of security concerns. This time, apprehensions are being raised about the condition of the railway bridge near the Kheria Airport that falls on the way to Taj Mahal. "As the airport is not regularly used, and foreign tourists are expected to take the train route, not much attention has been paid on its maintenance," said a tourist guide, requesting anonymity.

In fact, the Public Works Department has put up a board saying the bridge is in a weak condition and that heavy vehicles are not allowed. Allaying the fears, Superintendent of Police (City) Botre Rohan Pramod said, "It is not a cause of worry. It was used during the recent visit by the Brazilian President." Divisional Commissioner Anil Kumar told reporters on Monday that the PWD and the (U.P. State) Bridge Corporation have been told to do a check-up.

Massive police presence
Police sources said besides 4,000 constables, 10 Superintendents of Police, 18 Additional Superintendents of Police, 75 Deputy Superintendents of Police, 200 inspectors, 350 sub-inspectors and 16 companies of Central Armed Police Forces would be pressed into the security of arguably the most powerful man on earth.

"We are checking every house that falls on the route. The hotels have been asked to submit details of those staying with them to the local intelligence unit. Snipers will be placed on rooftops along the route," said Mr. Pramod.

Concerns have also been raised about the hotels which are working without proper permission from the authorities. "We are keeping a check on them as well," assured the official.

The increasing number of monkeys in the monument is also a concern.

Interestingly, Mr. Trump is coming at a time when the Taj Mahotsav is on, with hundreds of artisans in the city. Mr. Kumar said the administration has taken note of it. He said "the visit will end by 7.30 p.m.", the time when the stage shows of the Mahotsav begin.

A four-member advance team of the U.S. Embassy visited Agra on Monday.

Punjab govt. will renegotiate power pacts'

SAD-BJP govt. had signed them to defraud the State and people: Amarinder

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

CHANDIGARH

With the Opposition's criticism of high power tariffs mounting on the ruling Congress government in Punjab, Chief Minister Amarinder Singh on Monday said his government would renegotiate the Power Purchase Agreements, which he alleged the previous SAD-BJP government had signed to defraud the State and its people.

Affordable rates'

Given the shortfall in production by the State-owned power plants at Lehra Mohabbat and Ropar, the Chief Minister said his government would work around the existing arrangements with the private players to make power rates more affordable.

Addressing the newly-elected Punjab Youth Congress office-bearers here, the Chief Minister said the State's financial position was on its way to consolidation as a result of his government's efforts of the last three years and any attempt to scuttle the momentum would not be tolerated.

Capt. Amarinder said he hoped the exuberance shown by the young leaders would further enhance penetration of the State government's various pathbreaking pro-people policies at the grassroots.

CHANDIGARH

Days after four children were burnt alive in Punjab's Sangrur when a mini-van transporting them caught fire, the State Transport Department on Monday started a drive to inspect roadworthiness of school vans and buses.

Across the State, as many as 4,504 school buses and vans were checked in which 1,649 challans were issued for various violations.

As many as 253 vehicles were impounded for not complying with the requisite parameters of the Motor Vehicles Act during the drive by joint teams of the Punjab police and the civil administration of districts, according to an official spokesperson.

CM's order

The drive was launched following directions by Chief Minister Amarinder Singh, who ordered the Transport Department to launch a State-wide checking of all school buses to ensure safety and security of students to avoid recurrence of tragic mishaps like the school van fire in Sangrur last week.

AAP flays govt.

Aam Aadmi Party MLA and Leader of the Opposition in the Punjab Assembly Harpal Singh Cheema mean-while hit out at the ruling Congress government in the State for being insensitive to the safety and security of school children travelling in private school buses and vans.

Seeking dismissal of Education Minister Vijay Inder Singhla, Mr. Cheema said that it was unfortunate that the government had been insensitive to the cause of safety and security of school children by giving a free hand to the transport mafia in the State.

The AAP leader urged the State government to form a regulatory body to check the maintenance of vehicles, their fitness and road worthiness and ensure safety measures.

Magsaysay awardee Sandeep Pandey along with nine others was on Monday arrested and later released by the Uttar Pradesh police while he was trying to lead a march against the Citizenship (Amendment) Act (CAA) and the proposed nationwide National Register of Citizens. Mr. Pandey was also found distributing pamphlets at the protest site. He was released on a personal bond.

"He spent 3-4 hours in custody," said Mr. Pandey's wife Arundhati Dhuru, an activist. Mr. Pandey and others were booked under CrPC Section 151, which deals with arrest to prevent the commission of cognisable offences.

Mr. Pandey, a well-known social activist, along with 30-40 persons were marching from the Hussainabad Clock Tower to Ujariyaon village in Lucknow. Women have been holding sit-ins against the CAA at both sites since last month.

The pamphlets, distributed by Mr. Pandey and signed by a number of activists, asked citizens to unite to turn the Preamble of the Constitution "into a reality".

Land revenue receipt, PAN not proof of citizenship: Gauhati HC

GUWAHATI
Land revenue-paying receipt, permanent account number (PAN) card and bank documents do not prove the citizenship of a person, the Gauhati High Court has observed.

A Division Bench of Justices Manoj Bhuyan and Parthivjyoti Saikia made this observation on February 12 while dismissing a writ petition filed by one Jabeeda Begum against the order passed by a Foreigners' Tribunal at Tamulpur in western Assam's Baksa district.

The FT had declared her a foreigner who had entered Assam after 1971, the cut-off year for detection and deportation of illegal immigrants according to the Assam Accord of August 1985.

Ms. Begum had told the FT that the names of her grandparents and parents had appeared in the voters' list of 1966 while that of her father was in the 1970 list. The High Court agreed with the findings of the tribunal that she could not produce any document that could establish her link with her parents.

The court also referred to a 2016 case of one Md. Babul Islam to reject Ms. Begum's reliance on certain papers. "This court... has already held that PAN card and bank documents are not proof of citizenship," the judgment read.

Observing that land revenue-paying receipts and certificates issued by a village headman "can never be proof of citizenship of a person," the court said the FT was correct in its decision on Ms. Begum while dismissing her petition "devoid of merit."

On Konkan tour, CM avoids Nanar issue

Desai says party hasn't changed stance on refinery; Rane accuses Uddhav of double standards

SHOUMOJIT BANERJEE
PUNE

While emphasising the strong ties between the Shiv Sena and the Konkan region, Sena president and Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray on Monday cautiously avoided commenting on the contentious Nanar refinery project in Ratnagiri district.

Mr. Thackeray started a two-day visit to Konkan, his first visit to the region since becoming Chief Minister, on Monday. "Together with the Konkan region, we will create a new Maharashtra," he said during a groundbreaking ceremony in Ganapatipule in Ratnagiri.

The Chief Minister avoided making any remarks on the Nanar refinery project and whether his party, which has been vehemently opposed to the project, would stick by its stand.

Saamana advertisement

The Sena had opposed the Ratnagiri Refinery Petrochemical Limited, commonly known as the Nanar refinery project, when it was in power with the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) in the State.

However, an advertisement for the project in the Konkan edition of Saamana, the Sena's mouthpiece, has raised eyebrows and irked the residents of Nanar, who have threatened agitations if the party does a volte face on its promise to scrap the project.

Speaking earlier in Dhule, Industries Minister Subhash Desai said, "Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray is not a person to change his stance. We have cancelled the notification for the Nanar refinery project. No other party has gone to this extent. The Sena has not changed its stance on the project."

Not all was smooth on the first day of the Chief Minister's tour, as he had cope with fractiousness within his own party and criticism from the Opposition in the form of his bête noire, Konkan BJP leader and ex-Shiv Sainik Narayan Rane.

Mr. Rane, a former chief minister, accused Mr. Thackeray of duplicity over the Nanar project, while alleging that the Maha Vikas Aghadi government and the Chief Minister's Office were a wellspring of corruption.

"This government is not pushing any development projects, but halting all previous ones initiated by the erstwhile BJP government. Uddhav Thackeray has shown his double standards over Nanar by first opposing it and now permitting [its] advertisements in Saamana," Mr. Rane said.

He questioned the CM's silence over the matter and asked why Mr. Thackeray had refused to meet anxious Nanar residents despite promising never to permit the refinery to come up.

Unhappy MLA

Meanwhile, Mr. Thackeray's event in Ganapatipule was marred by Sena MLA from Ratnagiri Bhaskar Jadhav refusing to join in the felicitation ceremony for the Chief Minister.

Despite Mr. Thackeray personally requesting him, Mr. Jadhav, a former NCP leader and erstwhile guardian minister of Ratnagiri, refused to participate. He angrily ward off the attempts of Sena MP Vinayak Raut and Mr. Thackeray's political secretary, Milind Narvekar, to include him.

Mr. Jadhav, who has been disgruntled for not getting a Cabinet berth, took umbrage at the fact that he was seated at the far end during the ceremony. In December last year, Mr. Jadhav had openly expressed shock at his exclusion from the Cabinet.

BJP not planning 'Operation Lotus' in Maharashtra: Patil

State party president says MVA govt. will fall on its own

SHARAD VYAS
MUMBAI

The Bharatiya Janta Party (BJP) is not working on 'Operation Lotus' to bring down the Maha Vikas Aghadi (MVA) government in Maharashtra, State party president Chandrakant Patil said on Monday.

While the BJP believes the tripartite government is on a sticky wicket, the party will not work to bring down the government in an unconstitutional manner, he said. Mr. Patil was reacting to reports that the BJP may fashion a Karnataka-style 'Operation Lotus' to poach MLAs during the upcoming budget session of the Assembly and fashion a downfall of the MVA government.

Woman, kin refuse to claim her husband's body, booked

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
AURANGABAD

A disabled woman was booked in Aurangabad along with 10 relatives after she allegedly refused to take possession of the body of her husband, who died in a road accident, said an official on Monday. The family allegedly created a ruckus in the police station.

Arjun Rathod (30) died after his motorcycle was hit by a four-wheeler on Paithan-Aurangabad Road on February 11. His wife, Devaki, refused to take the body for cremation after legal formalities later that day, said the police official.

"She said she would claim her husband's body only after the four-wheeler driver was arrested. She also asked us to get the four-wheeler owner to pay her ₹10 lakh as compensation, which we refused as this demand was not possible for us to meet," said MIDC Paithan police station in-charge Archana Patil said.

"Devali and her relatives created a ruckus in the police station and attacked the staff. We booked 11 of them under various provisions of the Indian Penal Code," Ms. Patil said.

Devaki, however, has accused the police of hitting her and her relatives, and demanded that the cases against them be withdrawn.

Superintendent of Police Mokshada Patil said CCTV footage would be examined, after which further action will be initiated in the case.

Marathi kirtankar (preacher) Nivrutti Maharaj Indurkar has said some people unhappy with his work for society and the Warkari community were trying to trouble him by demanding cases against him.

The Maharashtra Andhashraddha Nirmulan Samiti (MANS), which works to eradicate superstitious beliefs, last week sought a police case against Mr. Indurkar for remarks on timing of intercourse and the sex of child, which it said violated the Pre-Conception and Pre-Natal Diagnostic Techniques (PCPNDT) Act.

During a sermon on Sunday in Ashti tehsil in Beed, the preacher said, "I have been working for society and among the Warkari community for the past 30-35 years. Some people are unhappy with this and want to put me in trouble."

He received support from BJP MLC Suresh Dhas, who claimed the kirtankar had said what was written in the treatise Guru Charitra. "We will support Nivrutti Maharaj if any action is taken against him. What is the connection between what he said and the PCPNDT Act?" Mr. Dhas asked.

The preacher received a rousing welcome in Bhosari in Pimpri Chin on Monday. With BJP's Pimpri Chinchwad MLA Mahesh Landge said, "We will hit the roads if anyone tries to malign his image," Mr. Landge said.

Senior Congress leaders in war of words on Twitter over party's Delhi tenure

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
DELHI/MUMBAI

Former Delhi Congress chief Ajay Maken on Monday hit out at senior party leader Milind Deora, who had tweeted saying that the AAP government had doubled its revenues to ₹60,000 crore and maintained a revenue surplus over the last 5 years.

Mr. Maken alleged that Mr. Deora was stating half-baked facts and that he may leave the party if he wishes so.

"Sharing a lesser known & welcome fact the @ArvindKejriwal-led Delhi Government doubled its revenues to Rs 60,000 crore & maintained a revenue surplus over the last 5 years. Food for thought: Delhi is now one of India's most fiscally prudent governments [sic]," Mr. Deora had tweeted.

To this, Mr. Deora said: "Would never undermine Sheila Dikshit's stellar performance as Delhi CM. That's your specialty. Instead of advocating an alliance with AAP, if only you had highlighted Sheila Jais achievements, @INCIndia would've been in power today [sic]."

Sheila Dikshit served as Delhi's Chief Minister for 15 years from 1998 to 2013. She died in July last year at the age of 81.

AICC Spokesperson Sharmintha Mukherjee had also hit out at former Union Minister P. Chidambaram on twitter after the loss.

Have sought time from Shah to discuss CAA, NPR: Yadav

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
PUNE

Swaraj India chief Yogenra Yadav on Monday said his outfit had demanded time from Union Home Minister Amit Shah to discuss issues like the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA), the National Population Register (NPR) and the National Register of Citizens (NRC).

Mr. Shah had told a news channel a few days ago that anyone who wanted to discuss issues related to the CAA with him could seek time from his office and they would be given time "within three days".

Speaking to reporters here, Mr. Yadav also said that the Maharashtra government should stick to its promise of not allowing the NPR exercise in the State.

The leaders of the Shiv Sena, Congress and Nationalist Congress Party have been talking in different voices on the NPR.

Mr. Yadav said a front called 'Hum Bharat Ke Log' established by some social fronts will launch protests against the NPR across the country.

Police on Monday arrested four persons, including the principal of a Gujarat college where authorities allegedly forced over 60 girls to remove their undergarments to check if they were menstruating a week ago, an official said.

The arrests were made after the Bhuj police filed an FIR against them for the February 11 incident at Shree Sahajanand Girls Institute (SSGI) which caused public outrage.

dy for two days, police said. Shree Sahajanand Girls Institute (SSGI) trustee Pravin Pindoria said they had suspended Ms. Ranina, Ms. Hirani, and Ms. Gorasiya after the FIR was registered against them.

The accused have been booked under IPC Sections 384 (extortion), 355 (assault with intent to dishonour a person) and 506 (criminal intimidation).

The hostel is part of the SSGI, run by a trust of the Swaminarayan Temple. It is affiliated to the Krantiguru Shyamji Krishna Verma Kutch University.

A seven-member team of the National Commission for Women on Sunday met the girl inmates of the hostel. A student earlier said the incident took place in the hostel on the campus of the SSGI, which offers graduate and undergraduate courses.

After a probe, Darshana Dholakia, in-charge Vice-Chancellor of the university to which the college is affiliated, had earlier said the girls were checked because the hostel has a rule that girls having their periods are not supposed to eat meals with other inmates. The hostel authorities decided to check them after they came to know that certain girls had broken the rule.

Goa tax on feni: GFP demands withdrawal, threatens agitation

'Govt. has not made any effort to popularise heritage drink'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
PANAJI

The Goa Forward Party (GFP) on Monday asked the Pramod Sawant government to withdraw the tax on feni announced in the State budget for 2020-21, and warned of an agitation if the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party did not do so.

First such tax

It is the first time that a tax, announced in the budget tabled in the Assembly on February 6, will be levied on the popular Goan beverage made from fermented and distilled juice of cashew apples, or from coconuts.

The tax is expected to increase price per bottle by almost 50%, and distillers and bottlers had earlier said the hike would impact sales of the alcoholic drink.

Talking to reporters in Margao, GFP chief Vijai Sar-desai said the State government should withdraw the feni tax by the end of the Carnival, scheduled from February 22 to 25, or face an agitation.

"Feni contributes only 1% of excise revenue collected by the State annually. Feni is made by Goans for Goans. The State government has not made any effort to popularise it after giving it the heritage drink status. This tax will also affect private players who want to make the drink popular," Mr. Sar-desai said.

Coconut feni worst hit

He said the coconut feni industry would be the worst hit, as it would amount to double taxation because farmers already pay tax when they bid for cashew plantations for harvesting at auctions.

HUBBALLI

Three Kashmiri students accused of raising pro-Pakistan slogans and booked for sedition were remanded in judicial custody by a Hubballi court till March 2.

High drama prevailed at the court complex where they were brought amid tight security. While a group of Hindutva activists and advocates raised slogans against them and in praise of "Bharat Mata" as they arrived, a few threw slippers towards the van and sought punishment for the accused terming them "anti-nationalists."

When the accused were escorted out of the courtroom and to the police van, a few VHP and Bajrang Dal activists tried to manhandle them breaking the police cover. They were subsequently taken to the sub-jail.

The accused – Basit Ashiq Sofi, Talib Majeed and Aamir Mohiuddin Wani – studying engineering in Hubballi were arrested on Saturday after a video in which they reportedly raised pro-Pakistan slogans went viral and were booked for sedition. But by

Sunday evening, the Goluk Road police released them under Section 169 of the Criminal Procedure Code.

Hubballi-Dharwad Police Commissioner R. Dileep said they were summoned for questioning on Sunday itself and were arrested after incriminating evidence against them was found.

He said the students were produced before the third JMFC (judicial magistrate first class) court, which remanded them in judicial custody till March 2.

Confusion and protests

On Sunday, members of Hindutva organisations staged a protest outside the Goluk Road police station after reports about their release. The Police Commissioner told them that the students had not been released and that they had been detained for further questioning.

Meanwhile, principal of KLE Institute of Technology Basavaraj Anami issued a press release clarifying that neither he nor the college management gave any security bond or undertaking seeking the release of the students.

To prove CAG wrong, Kerala police publicly count rifles

All 660 INSAS rifles accounted for, says Crime Branch ADGP

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

The Kerala police on Monday made an overt bid to prove to the public that the 25 assault rifles flagged as missing by the Comptroller and Auditor General of India (CAG) were in their safe custody.

Seemingly stung by the damning findings of the CAG and cautious about the attempts of the Opposition to politicise the issue, the government had despatched Additional Director General of Police, Crime Branch (CB), Tomin J. Thachankary to the armed police camp here to enumerate the INSAS 5.56 rifles stockpiled from armed units across the State.

In an unusual move, the police allowed newsmen into the bell of arms room to record visuals of Mr. Thachankary cataloguing the arms.

After a swift inspection,

A thorough check: ADGP Tomin J. Thachankary and IG S. Sreejith, left, inspecting the weapons. • SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

Mr. Thachankary said the police had accounted for all of the 660 INSAS rifles, and there was no "shortage" as found by the CAG.

The police had counted 647 rifles in the armoury and verified their serial numbers. An armed battalion deployed in Manipur had the remaining 13 guns in its custody. The officers had photographed the serial number of the guns and text-ed the images to the CB, he said. Ill-maintained records and clerical error might have prompted the CAG to deem the weapons as lost.

Mr. Thachankary said the CB had expedited its probe into the 12,061 missing cartridges spotlighted by the CAG.

Opposition leader Ramesh Chennithala asked why the police could not convince the CAG about the whereabouts of the arms.

Teenager accused of shoplifting dies

He collapsed outside the store in Hyderabad; parents say staff beat him up

HYDERABAD

The police have registered a case after an Intermediate student collapsed and died outside a store here on Sunday.

Around 9 a.m., they went to DMart to buy footwear. "As they didn't like the models on display, they decided to leave the store, before which the youngster allegedly pocketed a few chocolates," Vanasthalipuram inspector A. Venkataiah said.

The youngster, from Jogi Tanda in Suryapet district, was pursuing second-year Intermediate in Sri Chaitanya Junior College (Residential), Hayathnagar.

On Sunday morning, he along with three other students went for an outing, the police said.

Around 9 a.m., they went to DMart to buy footwear. "As they didn't like the models on display, they decided to leave the store, before which the youngster allegedly pocketed a few chocolates," Vanasthalipuram inspector A. Venkataiah said.

"A sales executive who noticed this alerted the security, who in turn asked the teenagers to return for checking. While going back to the store, the accused suddenly collapsed and was rushed to a nearby private hospital where he was declared dead," he said.

However, the victim's parents told the police that they were not aware of the outing. However, the college authorities maintained that they called the youngster's local guardian and his cousin, who had given permission for the outing.

The police suspect that the teenager had a panic attack and died. "However, the exact cause of death can be known only after the post-mortem," Mr. Venkataiah said. A case was registered and a probe is on.

India's bird population suffers long-term decline

Joint study by 10 bodies blames growing threat from loss of habitat, widespread presence of toxins, hunting and trapping

G. ANANTHAKRISHNAN
CHENNAI

Over a fifth of India's bird diversity, ranging from the Short-toed Snake Eagle to the Sirkeer Malkoha, has suffered strong long-term declines over a 25-year period, while more recent annual trends point to a drastic 80% loss among several common birds, a new scientific report jointly released by 10 organisations said on Monday.

The State of India's Birds 2020 (SoIB) assessment raises the alarm that several spectacular birds, many of them endemic to the sub-continent, face a growing threat from loss of habitat due to human activity, widespread presence of toxins, including pesticides; hunting and trapping for the pet trade. Diminishing population sizes of many birds because of one factor brings them closer to extinction because of the accelerated effects of others, the report warned. For every bird species that was found to be increasing in numbers over the long term, 11 have suffered losses, some catastrophically.

Rare urban sparrows
Of 101 species categorised as being of High Conservation Concern – 59 based on range and abundance and the rest included from high-risk birds on the IUCN (International Union for Conservation of Nature) Red List – endemics such as the Rufous-fronted Prinia, Nilgiri Thrush, Nilgiri Pipit and Indian vulture were confirmed as suffering current decline, and all except 13 had a restricted or highly restricted range, indicating greater vulnerability to man-made threats.

Among widely known species, the common sparrow, long seen as declining in urban spaces, has a stable population overall, although the data from major cities such as Mumbai, Delhi, Kolkata, Bengaluru, Hyderabad and Chennai confirm the view that they have become rare in cities and urban areas.

Among the possible reasons for this is a decrease in insect populations as well as nesting places, but there is no conclusive evidence in the scientific literature on radiation from mobile phone towers playing a part.

The SoIB was produced using a base of 867 species, and analysed with the help of data uploaded by bird-watchers to the online platform, eBird. Adequate data on how birds fared over a period of over 25 years (long-term trend) are available online for 261 species. Current annual trends are calculated over a five-year period.

Looking at the health of avifauna based on scientific groupings such as raptors (birds of prey), habitat, diet, migratory status and endemicity (exclusively found in an area), the analysis concludes that raptors overall are in decline, with 'open country' species such as the Pallid and Montagu Harriers, White-bellied Sea Eagle and Red-necked Falcon suffering the most.

The severe long-term decline of vultures, recorded and analysed for years now, is underscored by the report.

Migratory shorebirds, along with gulls and terns, seem to have declined the most among waterbirds, the report states, consistent with population trends among Arctic-breeding shorebirds based on independent assessments.

Habitats need help

Forward-looking actions suggested by the report include an update to the Red List of endangered species published by IUCN using the SoIB, collaborative research by scientists and citizens and urgent emphasis on habitats of species of high concern, notably grasslands, scrublands, wetlands and the Western Ghats.

Suhel Quader, a member of the SoIB team, noted that the report was a first step and an assessment of trends rather than causes. "Habitat loss and fragmentation are known causes of species declines, but targeted research is needed to pinpoint causes of decline", he said.

Elaborating on tri-service theatre commands, General Rawat said that one or two theatre commands will man the border with China. With Pakistan as the focus on the western front, he said, "Jammu and Kashmir should be a separate theatre, including the IB (International Boundary) part. Balance of Western theatre is another command."

The CDS clarified that the Navy should focus on submarines, and a third aircraft carrier was not an immediate priority. In response to a question on the IAF's tender for 114 fighter jets, Gen. Rawat said, "It has to be staggered."

He added that the government was not inclined to look at single big-ticket purchases. "I feel you should never go in for large numbers in one go," he said.

Google to end 'Station' programme

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

Five years after it started the 'Station' programme to bring free public Wi-Fi to 400 busiest railway stations in India, Google has decided to gradually wind down the service globally as it believes that better data plans and improving mobile connectivity have made it "simpler and cheaper" for users to get online.

However, users in India will be able to continue using the existing facilities at the over 400 stations via RailTel, Google's partner in India for the programme. The technology giant said that through the year 2020, it would be working with its partners to transition existing sites so that they could remain useful resources for the community.

Southern Bench of SC not favoured: Prasad

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

Law Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad, in a letter to Rajya Sabha member and Marumalarchi Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam chief Vaiko, said that though the matter of setting up a Southern Bench of the Supreme Court of India is pending in the top court, the issue has so far not found favour.

The letter, dated February 12, responded to a query raised by Mr. Vaiko in Parliament, in which he asked if a Bench of the Supreme Court can be set up in south India. "According to Article 130 of the Constitution, the Supreme Court shall sit in Delhi or in any other place or places as the Chief Justice of India may, with the approval of the President of India, from time to time, appoint. Representations have been received at various times from various quarters for the establishment of Benches of the Supreme Court in various parts of the country," Mr. Prasad said in his letter.

"I would like to state that the idea of a separate Bench of the Supreme Court outside Delhi has not found favour with the Supreme Court of India. The Attorney General of India, from time to time, was also consulted and had also posed the idea of Regional Benches of the Supreme Court," Mr. Prasad said in his reply.

The proposals under this theme should aim to perform scientific research on complete characterisation of milk and milk products derived from Indian indigenous cows; scientific research on nutritional and therapeutic properties of curd and ghee prepared from indigenous breeds of cows by traditional methods; development of standards for traditionally processed dairy products of Indian origin cow," says the 22-page note explaining the objectives of the programme.

A royal mess

Only pragmatism and prudence can lift the telecom industry from its current troubles

It cannot possibly get messier than this. The telecom industry is in turmoil unable to pay up its dues as per the Supreme Court verdict on adjusted gross revenues delivered in October last; the Court is aghast that its order is not being complied with; and then there is the government torn between revenue considerations, the need to uphold sanctity of contracts, and ensuring that one of the players does not go under in the process of honouring the verdict. Faced with the wrath of the Court, Bharti Airtel paid ₹10,000 crore on Monday with the promise of paying the rest before mid-March when the court will hear the case next. Vodafone Idea, the one hit the most by the judgment, on Monday sought more time to pay up but the Court was in no mood to humour the company and refused to hear the plea. The company eventually paid ₹2,500 crore by the evening. The two companies, as indeed the others in the industry, have only themselves to blame for the predicament that they find themselves in now. They could have paid up their annual dues over the years – which were not material in relation to their respective turnovers – under protest even as they litigated the case in the top court. That would have obviated the need to pay interest and penalties now which are higher than the actual dues. At the very least, they ought to have provided for the liability in their balance sheets as a contingency, which they failed to do.

While they have to pay the price for this now, what can be done to ensure that the blow is not fatal? If Vodafone shuts shop, not only will the industry be reduced to a duopoly, with all the attendant consequences for customers but it will also lead to loss of about 15,000 direct jobs and several thousand more indirect ones. Worse, the cascading effect will be felt across the economy as lenders face the consequences of the company going bankrupt – non performing assets will rise. Telecom equipment suppliers may also go down as their dues will not be paid. And what happens to the 212 million Vodafone subscribers? It is doubtful whether the other two players can absorb them all. The industry is critical to the government's plans for a digital economy not to mention its revenues, including from the upcoming 5G spectrum auctions. The government has to, therefore, examine what it can do to save the situation without disrespecting the Court's verdict. Legislation to offer a staggered payment schedule that ensures that the net present value of future payments is equal to the dues is one option experts are suggesting. There could be other options that can be considered in conjunction with the industry, including reducing the adjusted gross revenue-based licence fees and spectrum usage charges. Whatever route it chooses to soften the blow, the government will have to get the Court on its side at the next hearing on March 17. The need of the hour is pragmatism laced with prudence on all sides to clean up this royal mess.

Women-at-arms

In allowing women permanent commission, the court has demolished gender stereotypes. The Supreme Court has delivered a sharp rebuke to the government by asking it to adhere to its own stated policy, articulated on February 25, 2019, on granting permanent commission to women in the Short Service Commission (SSC). Though women are absorbed into the SSC, they are now denied permanent commission in most branches of the Indian Army. More importantly, in furthering the principle of equality and non-discrimination enshrined in the Constitution, the Court has at the same time come down heavily on the stereotypes of women and their physiological features that were consistently put across in the government's submissions to deny equal opportunity to women who fulfil the same criteria their male counterparts do. As long as society holds strong beliefs about gender roles there will not be change of mindsets, the top court observed. Indeed, the Court has torn into a number of contradictions inherent in the government's arguments that gravely weaken its case and expose inherent prejudices. For instance, it was submitted that deployment of women officers was not advisable in conflict zones where there was "minimal facility for habitat and hygiene". Yet, the government admitted to the Court that 30% of the total number of women officers are in fact deputed to conflict areas. In directing the government to grant permanent commission to those women who opt for it, in 10 branches of the SSC, and by ordering the government to level the playing field, the Court has forced acknowledgement of the sterling role women have played and continue to play, shoulder to shoulder, with their male counterparts, for the security of the nation. It has also made recommendations to correct the anomalies including in the matter of pensions due to women.

It is a telling state of affairs that though Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced on August 15, 2018 that permanent commission would be granted to serving women officers of the armed forces, it needed the Supreme Court to prod the government into doing it. The efforts of the litigants, who have waged an uphill battle since 2003, fighting their way up from the Delhi High Court, which ruled in their favour 10 years ago – and the government wilfully ignoring it – all the way up to the Supreme Court, deserve applause. That this discrimination should happen even while the Indian Army experiences a shortfall of officers by about 10,000 in the ranks is all the more galling. It is not as if there is surfeit of women officers: a mere 1,653 out of 40,825. Given the inherent flaws in the structure, implementation and change are not likely to happen soon, even given the Court's deadline of three months.

India's disturbing trauma narrative

In the silence over violence being perpetrated against children, the country appears to have lost its moral compass

VIKRAM PATEL

If the seizure of a pair of slippers of an 11-year-old as evidence in an investigation in a sedition case in Bidar, Karnataka, was not ludicrous enough, the imprisonment of a mother of a student in the same case for having contributed to the script of an apparently seditious primary school play, the arrest of the principal for allowing it to be performed in her school, and the interrogation of the children by uniformed police officers in the absence of any child welfare workers, would make a perfect script for an Orwellian nightmare.

Violation of rights

For those puzzled readers who may be wondering what the pair of slippers might have to do with this surreal theatre, it was the very object referred to in the play, according to media reports, when a child says "the boy who was selling tea till the other day is asking us for documents. I'll ask him where he was born and where his papers are. If he does not provide them, I will beat him with my slippers". Even if some patriots might argue that a child's slippers could indeed be used to wage war on our great nation and the remand report for the two women "found grounds for suspicion that the two influenced the children", the students themselves insisted, even after repeated interrogation, that they wrote the play themselves.

On the other hand, one child told HuffPost India, "We were scared. The policemen raised their voice every time they questioned us." Not surprisingly, many students have stopped going to school since then.

I imagine most people would think that this story must be fake news not only because it is so utterly absurd but also because our police who cannot find a moment to stop the lawless mayhem on our roads which have made India one of the world's largest traffic-death countries must surely be doing more important things. But the soul-crushing truth is that these events did happen. Leaving aside the numbing irony that a law designed by the British to suppress the freedom of speech of our avowedly non-violent independence activists should now be used by the police to suppress the freedom of expression of schoolchildren, my anguish is because of the terror that these children must have experienced as a result of this ordeal.

Not only did the arrest of the mother, a single parent, leave the child in the care of a neighbour but the arrest of the principal of their school left all the children without their trusted headmistress. Simultaneously, the police, threatening as they must have seemed to the children in their full regalia and having carted away the mother and principal to jail, were trying to get them to squeal incriminating evidence which could be used against these very trusted adults.

On 'toxic stress'

These traumatic experiences are not only a violation of the fundamental rights of the child but are severely damaging to their mental health. As the media reported, one child said when her mother was finally released, "I felt lonely and sad because all I have is my mother. I have never lived without her for a single day. So I was terrified."

The most damaging kind of trauma is that which results in "toxic stress", a term used to describe a child's experience of persistent adversity or abuse. Persistence, with no hope of escaping the threatening situation, is the hallmark of toxic stress. Perhaps the most vicious example is unfolding in Kashmir where, after two decades of living in a context suffused with the fear of violence from one side or the other, children have been subjected to six months of a lockdown, losing their fundamental rights of freedom to learn, play and be carefree. Worse, they must witness, silently, the mounting rage and helplessness that dominates the emotional landscape of their parents and their community, compounding their own feelings of insecurity, hopelessness and alienation.

There are now many reports of the mental health crisis engulfing young people in the Valley. The events in Kashmir and Karnataka are not an aberration. Consider the harrowing accounts of the experiences of children in a shelter home in Muzaffarpur, Bihar, where young girls were kept locked up for most of the day and where they were raped, after being sedated, at night. Investigators observed many signs of mental health problems, for example remarking on how "strangely they behaved", laughing and crying in rapid sequence, remaining silent for long periods, and appearing to be severely depressed. Many girls had self-inflicted injuries, behaviour associated with trauma in children. Conditions in other shelter homes were not much better, with appalling stories of cruelty and torture, and several instances of suicidal behaviour and mental breakdown.

Yet another example of unspeakable violence has unfolded in the past week with dozens of young women being insulted, paraded and forced to remove their innerwear to prove they were not on their period by their principal and school staff after a used personal hygiene product was found in a garden of their school, in Bhuj, Gujarat. "There are no words to describe the humiliation that we faced," said one of the students, as the media reported. No doubt, the overall atmosphere in such a school must have been atrociously oppressive.

Breach of trust

Among the most primal emotions which humans experience in their earliest years of life is fear. Fear is key to survival for, in leading to behaviours such as crying, it prompts a trusted adult to respond with affection, food or, most importantly, safety. But there are times when the fear can have catastrophic consequences and this is when the threat is persistent and unpredictable and, especially when, it is perpetrated by an adult who the child has been taught to trust and rely on for their protection – such as the police or the school principal or the child welfare worker or the army. It is this breach of the bulwark of trust which is the most poisonous toxin for the mind, and it is this feature which binds all these forms of trauma together.

When the Donald Trump administration in the United States implemented its policy to reduce illegal immigration by separating children from their parents at the U.S. border with Mexico, there were harrowing consequences on the mental health of the children. A report, published by the U.S. government's own inspectors, confirmed that separation of children from their parents had caused grievous psychological harm and laid the foundations for lasting and profound mental health problems in later life. Virtually every major American professional society concerned with mental health, public health or children's health condemned the government's actions as an assault on children's rights and well-being. While there has been a deathly silence from most professional groups in India in response to the gratuitous levels of violence being perpetrated against our children by the state, a few courageous institutions stand out for doing their job. In the past week, a panel of the Karnataka State Commission for Protection of Child Rights concluded that "it is clear that the police violated the rights of the children at the [Bidar] school".

Let me emphasise that my concerns about traumatising children have nothing to do with taking sides with a particular brand of politics or ideology, but simply about upholding the foundations of science, the law, ethics and, ultimately, our humanity. I have little doubt that the children of Shaheen Urdu Medium Primary School, the Muzaffarpur shelter home, the Shri Sahjanand Girls' Institute and all over Kashmir, cry to see their beloved country descend into such madness that it has lost its moral compass. To be sure, I weep with them too.

The long and the short of Trump versus the rest

With the weight of the Republican Party now behind him, the U.S. President is going all out to bag the November poll

KRISHNAN SRINIVASAN

The American Congress predictably acquitted U.S. President Donald Trump from charges of obstruction of Congress and abuse of power. This has left the Democrats, their supportive bureaucrats and the media detesting him while the Republicans and their followers embrace him, or back him sufficiently, to want him to continue in office.

The liberal media never accepted Mr. Trump as legitimate, depicting him as racist, chauvinist and a liar; they are unable objectively to assess the President's policies. Democrat-supporting liberals in the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Central Intelligence Agency and the bureaucracy showed their discontent in a quasi-rebellion against the President, and when the Russia collusion probe led nowhere, they turned to the impeachment route. Citing the sixth U.S. President, John Quincy Adams (1825-1829), "America... goes not abroad in search of monsters to destroy. She is the well-wisher to the freedom and independence of all," the liberal guardians of the presumed benevolent empire consider Mr. Trump a reckless isolationist – although he injected billions of dollars into the military – for questioning the financial burdens of alliances with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Japan and South Korea.

A shift in Republican stance

Republican establishment figures and ultra-conservatives, originally resentful of Mr. Trump, now coalesce behind him because he favours economic protectionism, chauvinism and foreign policy isolationism, has reduced corporate and wealth taxes, imposed limits on immigration and refugees, appointed conservatives to Supreme and Federal courts, de-regulated the economy and supported evangelical agendas including support for Israel's settlements and recognition of Jerusalem as its capital. If President Barack Obama's tenure saw the elimination of Osama bin Laden and stimulated the economy, Mr. Trump has killed Islamic State leader Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi and Iran's General Qasem Soleimani, slashed unemployment and grown the economy while opposing government programmes such as Obamacare and the Green New Deal. His approval among Republicans is around 90% despite his hostile takeover of the Party while branding himself as a warrior against élites, fake news and a corrupt establishment.

Driven by the urge for publicity, Mr. Trump uses provocation, confrontation and bombast to dominate the news agenda and exploit the vulnerabilities of his adversaries. His boasts of successes, which bend facts to breaking point, infuriate his opponents and distort their judgement. Populism is distasteful to the educated, but has certain merits in encouraging neglected constituencies to participate in the democratic process, though it is illiberal in nature and assaults institutions tasked with oversight over majority rule. Mr. Trump's opponents attack his boorishness but neglect the reasons why many voters supported him, namely because working and middle-class Americans, losing faith in state institutions and political parties, are responsive to right-wing extremists.

A resonating slogan

After the Gulf War fiasco and the financial crisis, Mr. Trump understood that the U.S.-led liberal order, free trade and globalisation no longer had popular traction; that is why his slogan "Make America Great Again" resonates. Americans know Mr. Trump held no public office, was a shady real-estate operator, draft dodger, evader of taxes, denigrator of Muslims, Latin Americans and women, but they elected him nevertheless, and he has continued along the same path, focusing on power irrespective of principle. With the weight of the Republican Party now behind him, he has, in effect, been campaigning from the day of his inauguration, while building a sophisticated data-gathering and voter mobilisation operation with an eye to winning the November 2020 election. Basic to this approach is bilateral leverage or quid pro quo.

Mr. Trump saw nothing wrong in asking the Ukrainian President to advance his political interests, or in acting against a Congress instruction. He claims the Democrats in Congress are obstructing him, and that only those who elected him could hold him accountable. It will be the American people who will finally express judgement on the Trump presidency, next November.

Then and now

In the previous presidential election of 2016, Republicans and independents who voted for Mr. Trump were driven mainly by dislike of Hillary Clinton and the élites who backed her. This time the Democrats and many independents will be motivated by hatred for Mr. Trump and his record. Independents, who will determine the outcome, will vote with consideration to their conscience and bank balances. Those who benefit from Mr. Trump's economic policies will vote for him, short of an economic recession or financial crisis, which although widely predicted, have yet to materialise.

Those worried about democracy, liberal values and civic rights will vote against him for fear of authoritarianism, racism and inequality. Much will also depend on the Democrats' choice of nominee. Mr. Joe Biden would be portrayed by Mr. Trump as a corrupt re-run of the Obama regime. Senators Bernie Sanders and Elizabeth Warren will be painted as radical leftists who endanger American prosperity. No sitting President incumbent has lost since George H.W. Bush's defeat to Bill Clinton in 1992 during tax increases and a recession. The 2020 presidential election will represent a decision between liberal and illiberal democracy. Whatever the outcome, the Trump presidency has laid down new yardsticks to preoccupy his successors and political leaders in all other countries for many decades to come.

tion ought to be about the economy, American traditional values and democracy. To win, the Democrats must appeal to the working and middle class, the automaker and steel worker. Mr. Trump will claim that millions of unworthy immigrants entered the U.S. while jobs went to China and Mexico and the establishment stood idly by. His 2016 strategy was to win key States such as Michigan, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, and that will be his objective again. Mr. Trump could, therefore, suffer a heavy defeat in the popular vote while winning the handful of States that decide the electoral college. Accordingly, while the impeachment process against Mr. Trump failed, its effect on voters in a few crucial States will prove critical.

Much will also depend on the Democrats' choice of nominee. Mr. Joe Biden would be portrayed by Mr. Trump as a corrupt re-run of the Obama regime. from that in the rest of the country. The UPSC topper had become a poster boy and an icon for youngsters in the Kashmir Valley wishing to join the mainstream. Any criticism of its narrative is now being considered seditious by New Delhi. The need of the hour is to reverse all such tyrannical orders that violate the human rights of people. Also, the conversion of the paradise into a military garrison needs an immediate relook if everything is to be considered normal in J&K.

Right to dissent

Dissent is a vital ingredient of a vibrant democracy, as indicated by Justice D.Y. Chandrachud ("Blanket labelling of dissent as anti-national hurts ethos of democracy"; Justice Chandrachud, Feb. 15). Dissent and democracy are often considered synonymous in a liberal-democratic social order. It is through open debate and discussion that the diversity of perceptions in a democracy gets exposed. Only through continuous interactions on critical issues does the real truth emerge. We owe our independence to Mahatma Gandhi, who had the courage and fortitude to express his dissent in a peaceful manner. In a progressive society, contrary views should be entertained. Further, the legislature should pass laws to protect dissenters, activists and whistle-blowers; it takes courage to take a stand and speak up, while the easiest thing is to 'go with the flow'. Dissent must be welcomed not just on the political front but in religious and professional spheres as well.

In national interest?

Prime Minister Narendra Modi's assertion on Sunday

that his government stands by its decision to dilute Article 370 in Jammu and Kashmir (J&K) and to introduce the Citizenship (Amendment) Act (CAA) is a product of high-handedness, prompted by the brutal majority enjoyed by his party in Parliament (Front page, "Will stand by decision on Art. 370, CAA: Modi," Feb. 17). His justification that these decisions were "in national interest and necessary", does not hold water, given that there are umpteen number of matters of national interest to be addressed on priority, like improving the economy; job creation; resurrecting ailing PSUs, etc. Also, why should a government that can invite Members of European Parliament to visit J&K, in order to get a 'normalcy' certificate, refuse to heed to the resolutions passed in international bodies?

Vulnerable electorate

The phenomenal outreach of social media networks in our country has raised the susceptibility of the electorate to micro-targeting. Through social media networks – coupled with sophisticated data mining and analytical tools – companies have acquired enormous capabilities to profile individuals. One can visualise the potential of these tools being used by political parties as a force multiplier to increase vote share, considering the vulnerabilities already existing in India. Protest but don't block roads, SC tells protesters

The court made it clear that it was not going to interfere or curtail the right to protest of ordinary people. It said it was only worried whether "tomorrow someone else may try to emulate the Shaheen Bagh protesters and block another portion of an already congested Delhi".

"You [Shaheen Bagh protesters] may have genuine concerns, but if everybody starts blocking roads and entering public areas... where will it end? It may create a chaotic situation," Justice Kaul said.

He also spoke of the possibility of another section of people "who may be not on the same page as you may get an idea to start a protest somewhere else... Then where do we end?"

Alternative sites

The court asked Mr. Mehta to suggest alternative sites for the protesters. But Mr. Mehta objected, saying that it was for the protesters to find an alternative spot.

"But the right to protest in a democracy is a fundamental right..." Justice Joseph reiterated.

U.K. MP denied entry into India, deported

She sought an explanation from the Indian immigration authorities for revocation of her Indian visa that was issued in October 2019 and was valid for one year. "Why did the Indian government revoke my visa after it was granted?" asked Ms. Abrahams.

Commenting on social media, the British MP wanted to know why Indian officials did not issue a "visa on arrival" if the immigration authorities found the issued visa was invalid. "Is it because I have been critical of the Indian government on Kashmir human rights issues?" she asked.

An official source, however, maintained that Ms. Abrahams was "not in possession of a valid visa to visit India" and therefore was denied entry.

It is understood that the U.K. High Commission here reached out to the MP during her few hours stay at the Indira Gandhi International Airport and has taken up the

Referring to the appointment of an interlocutor and future talks with protesters, Mr. Mehta said these efforts from the court should not be seen by the protesters as "every institution kneeling" to them.

"We have taken it upon ourselves to dissolve this issue now. Why did you not meet them for the past 68 days of their protest then?" Justice Joseph asked Mr. Mehta.

The law officer said efforts were made through local residents, religious leaders, etc, but to no avail.

"I always believe that the inner strength of the people will see help them see reason. For now, we have expressed our opinion. If nothing works out, then we will leave it to the authorities..." Justice Kaul said.

The case was posted for further hearing on February 24.

The hearing is based on a petition filed by advocate Amit Sahni, seeking a direction to forcibly remove the peaceful protesters. Mr. Sahni said the protest hampered the lives of ordinary commuters.

Govt. presented opposite positions: SC

Policy statement endorsed permanent commission for SSC women officers in two sections

LEGAL CORRESPONDENT NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court, which castigated the government for its stand on permanent commission for Short Service Commission women officers, favourably saw a policy statement filed separately by the government as a letter on February 25, 2019. It noted that the government's note and the February 2019 policy statement clashed with each other.

It wondered how the government had managed to present diametrically opposite positions in court.

10 streams

The judgment recorded that the policy statement had endorsed permanent commission for SSC women officers in 10 streams of the 'Combat Support Arms' and 'Services' sections. These are Signals, Engineers, Army Aviation, Army Air Defence, Electronics and Mechanical Engineers (EME), Army Service Corps, Army Ordnance Corps and Intelligence, in addition to the existing streams of Judge Advocate General (JAG) and Army Education Corps.

"The policy decision of the Union government is a recognition of the right of women officers to equality of opportunity," the court said.

SSC for women is available only in the 'Combat Support Arms' and 'Services' wings of the Army.

The exclusion of women from combat operations was not examined by the court as it was not the contested in the appeal.

The court dismissed the government's stand that only

Women in command

It's an order

Here are some of the salient features of the order:

- Accepts government policy to grant PC to short service commission (SSC) women officers in 10 streams of the Combat Support Arms and Services wings
- SSC women officers are eligible for command assignments and not just staff appointments
- SSC women officers granted PC will be entitled to all consequential benefits, including promotion and financial gains

For the women in uniform, career progression is now becoming a reality with the Supreme Court directing the Centre to grant permanent commission (PC) within three months. Here is a snapshot of the long years of the fight women officers have conducted against discrimination:

1992: Centre notifies women eligible for appointment as officers for five years in the Army Postal Service, Judge Advocate General Department, Army Education Corps, Signal Corps, Intelligence Corps, Corps of Engineers, Corps of Electrical and Mechanical Engineering and Regiment of Artillery, among other Corps

Dec. 1996: Ministry of Defence deletes the five-year clause for enrollment

Nov. 2005: The initial process of induction of women officers under the WSES was replaced by SSCs with an outer period of 14 years. The first batch of women officers under the new scheme entered the Army in 2008

2003 and 2006: Writ petitions filed in the Delhi High Court by advocate

Babita Puniya and several SSC women Army officers for permanent commission and equality of opportunity in the Army

March 2010: Delhi HC holds that women SSC officers of the Air Force and Army who had opted for PC, but not granted that status would be entitled to PC at par with male SSC officers with all consequential benefits. Contempt proceedings were then initiated by the women officers against the Union of India for non-compliance with the HC judgment. Contempt was later stayed

FATF to review Pakistan status today

Officials and diplomats say task force may retain grey list status

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

As officials from the International Cooperation Review Group (ICRG) of the 39-member Financial Action Task Force (FATF) meet in Paris on Tuesday to discuss the risk rating for Pakistan and Iran, India plans to raise the repeated "politicisation" of the process by Pakistan, which is aiming to avoid being "blacklisted" by the group for its actions on countering terrorism.

In particular, Indian officials are expected to point to statements by the leaders of Turkey and Malaysia, who have gone public on their plans to back Pakistan, instead of going by the regulations of the FATF that evaluates countries on the basis of technical parameters and maintains confidential proceedings. In the past two weeks, Malaysian Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad and Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan have issued statements promising to support Pakistan at the FATF, as well as on Kashmir.

The External Affairs Ministry issued sharp responses to both statements, in addition to issuing the Turkish Ambassador to India a "strong demarche" on Monday over the references to India's "internal affairs".

Asked about India's plans to raise the issue at the FATF, however, the Ministry declined to comment. "It is for the FATF to decide," said an official, adding that the government "would not like to comment on FATF deliberations". In the past, the FATF had taken strong exception to public statements and "politicisation" of its processes.

Decision on Friday

The decision of the FATF's plenary session (February 16-21) on whether to retain Pakistan on its "greylist" of countries of concern, downgrade it to its 'blacklist' for non-compliance, or let it off for progress shown, will be finalised on Friday at the end of the session.

At the last meeting of the Asia Pacific Group in Beijing last November, Pakistan had been judged as having cleared 14 of the 27-point action plan checklist it was given by the group on countering terror financing and black money laundering.

India hopes to highlight the unfinished items on Pakistan's agenda, as well as the government's claimed inability to track UN Security Council-designated terrorists like Jaish-e-Mohammad chief Masood Azhar and 26/11 LeT operations chief Zaki Ur Rahman Lakhvi as India seeks to push for more stringent action against Pakistan.

However, officials and diplomats aware of the process said it was more likely that Pakistan would be retained on the "greylist" for the moment with a "stern warning" rather than being moved to the "blacklist" during this round at the FATF, for a number of reasons.

To begin with, there is a general perception that, albeit on paper, Pakistan does appear to have made some positive moves on the FATF's demands, including amending its laws and a crackdown on bank accounts and premises of terror groups such as the LeT/JuD and JeM.

The Financial Action Task Force (FATF) on Monday said several terrorist groups continued to benefit from funds raised through illegal activities and from supporters worldwide despite the iteror financing watchdog tightening the standards on flow of money.

Without naming Pakistan, the FATF said that terrorists use various methods to gain financing, including using social media to identify new followers and to solicit financial or other forms of material support.

"The FATF has tightened its standards on terrorist financing which has helped disrupt access to funds for groups such as ISIL and Al-Qaeda. However, various groups still benefit from funds raised through illegal activity," it said.

The erstwhile State of Jammu and Kashmir was bifurcated into the Union Territories of Jammu and Kashmir and Ladakh by Parliament on August 6, 2019. Thereafter, the Union government appointed a panel to find out officials' preference for posting. The General Administration Department of Jammu and Kashmir issued an order last year seeking options from government officials "for their further allocation" to and posts; and the conditions of service of persons appointed to such services and posts for the purposes of probation, confirmation, seniority and promotion".

The official said a new administrative complex was being built in Leh. It would also house the office of the Hill Development Council.

There are about four lakh State government employees and 66 Indian Administrative Service (IAS) and 68 Indian Police Service (IPS) officers in the erstwhile State. Under the Jammu and Kashmir Reorganisation Act, 2019, the IAS, the IPS and other central service officers will continue to work in the Union Territories, while new recruits will be allocated the Arunachal Pradesh-Goa-Mizoram and Union Territory cadre.

In the Union Budget unveiled on February 1, a total of ₹30,757 crore was allocated to Jammu and Kashmir and ₹5,958 crore for Ladakh for the fiscal 2020-21.

Pawar, NCP firm on SIT probe in Elgar, Bhima Koregaon cases

Uddhav Thackeray's government is divided on the issue

Nationalist Congress Party chief Sharad Pawar on Monday asked his party's Ministers to ensure that a special investigation team (SIT) was set up in the Elgar Parishad and Bhima Koregaon cases.

After the National Investigation Agency (NIA) took over the case from the Maharashtra police, the NCP Ministers must ensure that a parallel probe was instituted at any cost, Mr. Pawar told his party colleagues while reading out Section 10 of the NIA Act which permitted the State government to set up a parallel probe. Mr. Pawar chaired a meeting of NCP Ministers at the Y.B. Chavan Centre in South Mumbai.

"The moment he read out the Act, we took the cue and spoke among ourselves on how to set up the SIT. The party believes whatever may be the Shiv Sena's opinion on this, the cases are completely fabricated," said a NCP Minister.

While the NCP believes the party's priority is to dig deeper into the issue, Chief Minister Anil Deshmukh said the government would set up an SIT once the legal opinion from the Advocate-

General was received.

"Once we have the A-G's opinion, we will once again speak to the Chief Minister and get approval for this SIT. We are committed to setting up the SIT and most of our leaders agree this should be done," he said. Two other NCP Ministers, including Minority Minister Nawab Malik and Water Resources Minister Jayant Patil, advocated the need for an SIT. "The NIA Section 10 allows the State to institute this SIT, there is no question of withholding such a move from taking place," Mr. Malik said.

J&K to get delimitation commission

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

About six months after the State of Jammu and Kashmir was split into the Union Territories of J&K and Ladakh, the government moved on Monday to start the delimitation of Assembly constituencies in J&K.

On a request by the Department of Legislative Affairs of the Ministry of Law and Justice, Chief Election Commissioner Sunil Arora on Monday named Election Commissioner Sushil Chandra as his nominee to the proposed Delimitation Commission for Jammu and Kashmir, an EC spokesperson said.

"Gandhiji always looked at India from an Indian perspective". There was much similarity in the Mahatma's views and that of RSS founder K.B. Hedgewar, he added.

An official of the Commission said the EC was ready to provide secretarial assistance to the Commission once appointed, as it is required to do.

No headway in India-U.S. trade talks

However, officials say differences have narrowed on 25 of the 30 issues

SUHASINI HAIDAR
NEW DELHI

With no significant movement on the India-U.S. trade negotiations yet, officials are considering taking even a modest deal off the table when U.S. President Donald Trump visits India on February 24-25, sources privy to the talks said.

As The Hindu had reported on Friday, U.S. Trade Representative Robert Lightizer was due to visit New Delhi last week, but put off the visit when it appeared there was not enough progress in the talks, that appear to have run into trouble over market access for agricultural products including dairy, liberalising e-commerce, and investment norms for retail, as well as India's push for a full reinstatement of its GSP (Generalised System of Preferences) status that the U.S. revoked last June.

Mr. Lightizer and Commerce Minister Piyush Goyal have not spoken since last Thursday, it is learnt, and after another unsuccessful attempt to reschedule Mr. Lightizer's visit over the weekend, officials are beginning to feel that time may be running out to wrap up negotiations in time for the presidential visit.

Met three times

However, officials on both sides have confirmed that there has been a narrowing of differences on as many as 25 of about 30 issues, as USTR officials have met with Commerce Ministry negotiators three times in the past month, and their talks could be picked up after the President's visit. In addition, said the sources, if there is enough political backing for a trade deal of some sort, Mr. Trump, who said last week that he was keen on signing the "right deal" with India, could include Mr. Lightizer as a part of his delegation to try and make a broad announcement.

Another issue that has eluded resolution despite talks for more than two years concerns the U.S. Embassy's sale of "Lincoln House", its previous Consulate Building in Mumbai, that was sold for a record bid of ₹750 crore to a businessman in 2015. However, the property is on a long-term lease from the Defence Ministry, which has yet to clear the transfer of the property, holding up the payment for the Embassy. Officials had hoped to have this issue, which incurs U.S. Congressional oversight, cleared before Mr. Trump's visit, but have made no headway yet.

As many as 154 prominent citizens, including former judges, bureaucrats, armed forces officers and academics, on Monday said a "false and motivated" campaign was being launched against the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA), the National Population Register (NPR) and the National Register of Citizens (NRC) with a sinister design to harm the nation. The citizens, including 11 former judges of High Courts, 24 retired IAS officers, 11 former Indian Foreign Service officers, 16 retired IPS and 18 former Lieutenant-Generals, said "fear" was being spread across the length and breadth of India which appeared to be "motivated and with a sinister design" to harm the nation.

They said the campaign was being carried out in a "coordinated manner" leading to violent protests in which public and private property had been destroyed. There had been a "false and nefarious narrative" about the recently enacted legislation such as the CAA, and the idea of the NPR and the NRC.

Hundreds of Americans flown home from cruise ship in Japan, 14 with COVID-19

SHANGHAI/GENEVA

More than 300 American cruise liner passengers, including 14 who were diagnosed with COVID-19, were flown home to military bases in the U.S., after two weeks under quarantine off Japan.

The cruise ship Diamond Princess, with more than 400 cases, has become the biggest test so far of other countries' ability to contain an outbreak that has killed 1,770 people in China and five elsewhere.

Although U.S. officials said passengers with virus symptoms would not be taken, 14 passengers found at the last minute to have tested positive were permitted to board the planes. The U.S. State Department said they were kept in isolation on the flights.

Across mainland China, officials said the total number of cases rose by 2,048 to 70,548. That was slightly more new cases than were reported on Sunday, but hundreds fewer than reported on Saturday.

Chinese authorities say the stabilisation in the number of new cases is a sign that measures taken to halt the spread of the disease are having an effect. However, epidemiologists say it is still too early to say how well the outbreak is being contained within China and its Hubei province, where the virus first appeared.

Cruise ships

Around half of all known cases of the virus outside China have been found aboard the Diamond Princess, where around 400 people have tested positive since the vessel was ordered to stay under quarantine off Japan on February 3. Several other countries have announced

Chinese doctors using 'plasma therapy'

AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE

Chinese health officials on Monday urged patients who have recovered from COVID-19 to donate blood so that plasma can be extracted to treat others who are critically ill.

Plasma from patients who have recovered from a spell of pneumonia triggered by the virus contains antibodies that can help reduce the virus load in critically ill patients, said Guo Yanhong, who heads the National Health Commission's medical administration department

Eleven patients at a hospital in Wuhan received plasma infusions last week, said Sun Yanrong, of the Biological Center at the Ministry of Science and Technology. "One patient (among them) has already been discharged, one is able to get off the bed and walk and the others are all recovering," she said.

The call comes days after state-owned medical products maker reported successful results from its trial at a Wuhan hospital. China National Biotech Group Co. said that severely ill patients receiving plasma infusions "improved within 24 hours".

and 802 crew had reported any symptoms, it said.

'No blanket measures'

The World Health Organization (WHO) warned against "blanket measures" over the outbreak, pointing out that the epidemic outside of China was only affecting a "tiny" proportion of the population.

WHO also said that — with a mortality rate of around 2% — COVID-19 was "less deadly" than other coronaviruses such as the Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome (SARS) or the Middle East Respiratory Syndrome (MERS). Officials rejected the suggestion that all cruises should be halted to avoid risking a new nest of infection like the one on the Diamond Princess.

"Measures should be taken proportional to the situation. Blanket measures may not help," WHO chief Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus told reporters in Geneva.

A WHO team earlier held discussions with Beijing health authorities on the outbreak. The team visited the main infectious disease facility, Ditan Hospital, and the Anzhen community centre and health clinic, and held talks with the China Centre for Disease Control.

It was not immediately clear who was responsible for the attack, which comes as jihadist groups with links to al-Qaeda and the Islamic State seek to gain control over once peaceful rural Burkina Faso, fuelling ethnic and down in Nimroz province, but an official there said the helicopter made an emergency landing and had not been attacked.

Peace accord

Despite the violence on the ground, a senior Taliban leader in Doha confirmed a deal with the U.S. is set to be signed by the end of February in a "signing ceremony" in Doha.

Leaders of the United Nations, European Union and Islamic nations and neighbouring countries would be invited to the attend, Mawlawi Abdul Salam Hanafi, deputy chief of the Taliban's Doha office, was quoted as saying by Nunn Asia — a pro-Taliban website with strong links to the group's leadership.

"Soon after signing the peace accord, the U.S. will release 5,000 of our prisoners and we will free 1,000 of theirs," Mr. Hanafi said.

Successful implementation of the deal would move the U.S. closer to a further drawdown of troop levels in Afghanistan.

On Sunday night, Taliban fighters attacked Afghan government forces overnight, and militant commanders said on Monday insurgency operations would go-ahead until they receive fresh instructions based on a deal with the U.S. to reduce violence in the country.

Last week, a senior U.S. administration official said negotiations with Taliban representatives in Qatar had resulted in an agreement in-principle for a week-long reduction of violence, but the seven-day period had not commenced. The official said the agreement covered all Afghan forces, and would be closely monitored.

Our leadership hasn't conveyed any message about a ceasefire to us, said a Taliban commander in Helmand, a southern province that has seen some of the fiercest fighting.

Commanders in Paktika and Nangarhar — two other provinces regarded as strongholds for the Taliban — also said they would continue their attacks as planned.

Armed assailants "attacked the peaceful residents of this area after identifying them and separating them from non-residents", the government said. It said 18 people were also injured in the attack and an unknown number were kidnapped.

Many Muslims have also been killed by armed groups over the past year. Last October, gunmen stormed a mosque during Friday prayers and killed 15 people.

SEBI caps fees for investment advisers

Board okays separation of advisory, distribution to minimise conflict of interest

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
MUMBAI

The Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) has amended the regulatory framework for investment advisers to introduce a cap on the maximum fee such entities can charge to investors while segregating the advisory and distribution activities to minimise conflict of interest issues.

2.5% of assets

The board of the capital markets watchdog, which met in Mumbai, approved the amendment in the SEBI (Investment Advisers) Regulations 2013, which also stipulated that a person dealing in distribution of securities cannot use the nomenclature 'Independent Financial Adviser' or 'Wealth Adviser' without registering as an Investment Adviser with the regulator.

While the regulator did not specify the upper limit of fees, a consultation paper floated by SEBI in January had proposed capping the fees at 2.5% of the assets under advice or a fixed fee of ₹75,000 per year per family. Further, an Individual Investment Adviser will not be able to provide distribution services, stated a release by the regulator. On a different note, the regulator also said that Karvy Stock Broking, which is under the regulatory scanner for pledging client securities to raise funds for itself, will make good the payout shortfall by March.

Moody's cuts India GDP forecast; 'demand, credit growth critical'

Improved indicators indicate economy may have stabilised

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
MUMBAI

Moody's has revised its growth forecasts for India downward to 5.4% for 2020 and 5.8% for 2021, from its previous projections of 6.6% and 6.7%, respectively.

It has also revised its global GDP growth forecast down, given the adverse impact of the coronavirus on the world economy.

"We now expect G-20 economies to collectively grow 2.4% in 2020, a softer rate than last year, followed by a pick-up to 2.8% in 2021," Moody's said in a report.

"We have reduced our growth forecast for China to 5.2% in 2020 and maintain our expectation of 5.7% growth in 2021," it said.

Moody's also lowered growth projections for Mexico and South Africa, as it has for India, as a reflection of domestic challenges in these countries rather than external factors.

On India, it said that the economic recovery would likely be shallow. "India's economy has decelerated rapidly over the last two years. Improvements in the latest high frequency indicators such as PMI data suggest that the economy may have stabilised," it said.

"While the economy may well begin to recover in the current quarter, we expect any recovery to be slower than we had previously expected," it added.

A key to stronger economic momentum would be the revival of domestic demand, both rural and urban. But equally important is the resumption of credit growth in the economy, Moody's said.

"As data from the RBI shows, credit impulse in the economy has deteriorated throughout the last year as a result of the drying up of lending from non-bank financial institutions as well as from banks. Banks have been both unwilling to lend and to lower lending rates despite successive interest rate cuts by [RBI]," it said.

size in the basket; except for seasonal fluctuation, prices of most goods, particularly food products, have been kept well within acceptable norms, she said.

Addressing a media conference here on Friday, the Minister said, "We have been absolutely realistic with all the figures, that we can spend or borrow, presented in the budget. A fiscal deficit target of 3.5% for next fiscal is the real picture."

On inflation, she said the government was hopeful.

She cited the case of seasonal, perishable commodities which make up a significant arrears by defaulting telecom firms, as recently directed by the Supreme Court. "The concerned Ministry has been engaging with telecom players since the court's ruling. I will wait to hear the Telecom Ministry's decision."

It may be recalled that Justice Arun Mishra-led bench on February 14 ordered Airtel and Vodafone Idea to pay their AGR dues immediately to avoid contempt of court.

Congenial environment

Speaking at the fifth post-Budget interactive session, she said a lot of preparation and consultation had gone into drafting a pragmatic, forward-looking Budget, which was also designed to ensure a congenial environment for taxpayers.

This acquisition will expand the company's presence in the eastern region of the country and further diversify its fuel mix and offtake arrangements, besides taking the overall installed capacity of the company to 5,609 MW.

When asked about funding the acquisition, Mr. Jain said, "We will take existing debt of ₹3,951 crore in our books and will pay ₹1,370 crore on closing of the deal and another ₹755 crore on completion of certain milestones. We have strong balance sheet with debt equity ratio of 0.76:1. So, funding will not be a problem."

CARE Ratings downgrades Vodafone Idea

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

Care Ratings Limited (CARE), has downgraded its rating on long-term bank facilities and non-convertible debentures (NCDs) of Vodafone Idea to CARE BB- (under credit watch with negative implications).

The ratings were downgraded on account of a significant erosion in the overall risk profile of the company while taking cognisance of the financial impact after not being granted relief on the modification plea of February 14, 2020 in which telecom companies sought a new schedule of adjusted gross revenue dues by the Supreme Court, and significant losses to the tune of ₹6,453 crore in Q3FY20, Care said.

When asked about funding the acquisition, Mr. Jain said, "We will take existing debt of ₹3,951 crore in our books and will pay ₹1,370 crore on closing of the deal and another ₹755 crore on completion of certain milestones. We have strong balance sheet with debt equity ratio of 0.76:1. So, funding will not be a problem."

JSW Energy has signed a shortfall in payout, after factoring in the available securities and funds of Karvy Group, is estimated at about ₹680 cr.

Karvy Group is in the process of selling stake in a group company and the term sheet has already been signed, said SEBI chairman Ajay Tyagi while addressing the media after the board meeting.

The shortfall in payout, after factoring in the available securities and funds of the group, is estimated at about ₹680 cr.

As per the SEBI chairman, Karvy Stock Broking's outstanding payment obligations are pegged at ₹1,189 crore while the group has available funds amounting to ₹511 crore.

Among other things, the regulator has made it mandatory for sponsors of mutual funds to invest in close ended schemes. Currently, such a requirement is mandatory for all kinds of schemes except close-ended ones.

Circular soon

Mr. Tyagi added that the regulator was examining the issue of categorisation of funds and would soon come out with a circular.

This is on the back of representation from the industry that fund houses were finding it difficult to invest, especially in the small-cap universe.

The regulator has also amended the SEBI (Depositories and Participants) Regulations to include a clause that would state that pledge would include re-pledge of securities for margin and/or settlement obligations of the client.

Response to long-term repo encouraging: RBI

Bids far exceed notified amount

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
MUMBAI

The response to the first long-term repo auction, which was conducted on Monday, was highly encouraging, the Reserve Bank of India said. The central bank has received total bids of ₹1,94 lakh crore, for the three year repo, compared with the notified amount of ₹25,000 crore.

"The response to the long term repo operation (LTRO) has been highly encouraging. The total bids that were received amounted to ₹1,94,414 crore, implying a bid-to-cover ratio (i.e., the quantum of bids received relative to the amount announced) of 7.8," RBI said in a statement after the first auction on Monday.

"The total amount of bids has, in fact, exceeded the aggregate amount of ₹1 lakh crore proposed to be offered under the LTRO scheme." RBI will conduct the second issue for ₹25,000 crore on February 24 which will have a 1-year tenor.

In the sixth bimonthly monetary policy review earlier this month, the central bank, while keeping the key interest rate unchanged, had announced that it would conduct term repos of one-year and three-year tenors up to a total amount of ₹1 lakh crore at the policy repo rate, which is 5.15%.

These will allow banks to garner funds cheaper than the prevailing market and in turn, help them to reduce interest rate costs. "This should encourage banks to undertake maturity transformation smoothly and seamlessly so as to augment credit flows to productive sectors," RBI had said while making the announcement.

Drape side story

RANJANI GOVIND

The Registry of Sarees in Bengaluru released Pleated, by Aishwarya Rao, with illustrations by Riddhi Desai. Aishwarya, born in Bengaluru and raised in Chennai says she wrote the book for her Ammamma (grandmother). Her grandmother's colourful collection of saris is woven into the uniquely-designed book. The book opens out like an accordian echoing the pleats of a sari and is printed on both sides. "Pleated is neither an authority on saris, nor a comprehensive tome on the garment and colours," says Aishwarya who studied Communications at Symbiosis (Pune) before doing a Masters in Business Administration from The University of Texas.

Complex and inspirational characters from South India such as M. S. Subbulakshmi, J. Jayalalitha and Bangalore Nagerathnamma people the book. Visual artist, designer and illustrator, Riddhi says she fell in love with textiles when she visited the Calico Museum of Textiles in Ahmedabad. Aishwarya and Riddhi speak about their book, in this conversation.

How did you two come together?

Aishwarya: I started writing Ammamma's story and realised that some of my favourite books combined the power of words and visuals. I reached out to Riddhi on Instagram. I had been a silent fan of her work. We met for the first time over coffee and it felt like the pieces of a puzzle had fallen into place.

What was the concept behind the book?

Aishwarya: As you go through Ammamma's story, you will notice how unsentimental and untraditional she is. From wearing colours she liked and living a minimalistic life to looking beyond religion, caste and colour,

Aishwarya Rao and Riddhi Desai talk of Pleated, a uniquely designed book on saris my Ammamma displayed an independence of thought. She wasn't the only one...There were other bold, brave women at a time when feminism was not a trend. The women belonged to a time and society that loved to stereotype and demanded adherence to a norm. Everything you wore and the way you wore it acquired meanings and told a story. For example, the sari brooch spoke of sophistication while lipstick suggested a slight stain in character – women who wore make up were labelled provocative. These women, however, refused to be stereotyped and that is why they are featured in Pleated.

Riddhi: I wanted to showcase the life of Raji (Aishwarya's Ammamma) and other bold women through the pleats of the sari. One side of the book celebrates the Kanjeevaram sari and korvai border where the illustrated motifs come together to share Ammamma's story. The other side of Pleated is a celebration of women from South India, with illustrations and details inspired by Indian architecture.

How did you choose the other women in the book?

Aishwarya: This book is not only about Ammamma's collection of Kanjeevarams, Arani Pattus or Sungudi saris. Her saris were functional.

However, her unique choice of colours combined with standard and simple borders made many of her saris statement pieces. The chapter titles Karuppu (black) Vadamalli (globe amaranth) reflect that thought. I wanted a book to explore the idea of what if the most traditionally dressed women were actually our most liberal thinkers, our own rebel girls.

You have to look beyond what they are wearing. As you look beyond M. S.' signature drape, you find a woman who expressed her love for a co-star rather uninhibitedly, a woman who sang in praise of Allah and Jesus without a second thought.

How long did you take to write the book?

Aishwarya: I started working on the front side (Ammamma's story) from August 2018. The book took 18 months. This was a passion project. I am not a regular author. My day job as an eCommerce consultant is both incredibly busy and unimaginative. I worked on Pleated after hours and on weekends.

Could you comment on the structure?

Riddhi: The format of the book was finalised first and then the design and illustration followed. It took us a year from the end of 2018. The accordian-fold format was the first thread of our conversation.

Could you elaborate on the illustrations?

Riddhi: The artworks of the women, real and mythological, were studied from different points of time. I didn't have access to a colour image of Sarojini Naidu or a middle-aged Rukmini Devi.

To visually translate the text on jewels, I read the Tamil epic Silappadikaram for the description of the courtesan, Madhavi. I don't recall a depiction of clothing; for me the jewels on Madhavi were her drape. There was an equal amount of time spent on research as much as execution.

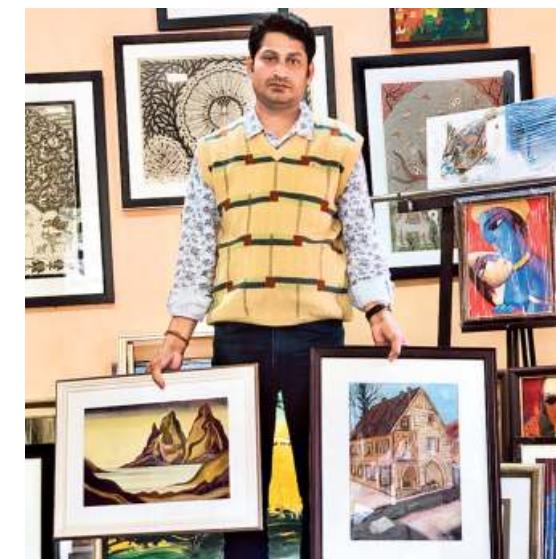

From Kanjeevaram designs, colours, motifs, its symbolism to the studies done on the lives of the women. Skin tones of the women were carefully worked on: Draupadi (also called Krishna because of her complexion) is rarely depicted in dark skin tones.

All the women's illustrations were sketched first and then rendered in Photoshop. Padmini, M. S., and Jayalalitha are all carefully rendered. I was thrilled when The Registry of Sarees called us to say how much they loved the book.

Up close and personal with legendary artists at this frame shop in Kolkata

How often do you get to look at – even touch and feel – a Jamini Roy or a Nandalal Bose or an S.H. Raza, as if you were browsing in a supermarket?

At the Salt Lake City branch of Chemould, the famed framemakers in Kolkata, you can. Works of several legends rest casually on the walls of this tiny shop, as if they're recently-framed pictures waiting to be collected by customers. You realise their value only when you ask for the price and subsequently look at the signature.

"It is no fun admiring creations of great artists from a distance. You should be able to get intimate with them. Only then you can appreciate art," says Arnab Chakraverty, 42, whose family is in the business of importing frames. They bought over Chemould – started in Park Street in 1941 by celebrated art patron Keku Gandhi – in 2008.

In 2011 they revived the art gallery that Chemould had once been known for, and on Valentine's Day in 2014 Chakraverty opened a branch in FE Block of Salt Lake City. "My wife Deblina is an artist herself; she had won the President's Medal when she was barely 13. After I got married I began to appreciate art. Today I have works of almost all the big artists you can think of: M.F. Husain, Jamini Roy, Nandalal Bose, Bikash Bhattacharya, F.N. Souza (in picture in his left hand), Ganesh Pyne, V.S. Gaitonde, Abdur Rahman Chughtai, Gopal Ghose and many more," says Chakraverty.

Works of Husain, which command the highest price, about ₹40 lakhs each, are not displayed in the shop, but those of most others are, including one by Nicholas Roerich (in picture in his right hand). Chakraverty's collection includes mica paintings (the oldest dates back to 1830), and also Kalighat and Dutch Bengal art.

"Earlier I hardly had people coming into the shop, but now there is some awareness. I am even getting a few customers," says Chakraverty. Each work of art comes with the certificate of provenance and authenticity, which specifies where it was sourced from. "No one would spend ₹30 or 40 lakh – that's the cost of a small apartment – on a painting whose authenticity they are not sure of," he says.

He recalls an incident from 2018, when he sold two works of artist Ram Kumar to a customer from Jamsheedpur. "Someone later told the customer that the paintings may not be genuine. I told him that he was free to return them, but he liked them so much that he didn't want to part with them and took them to Ram Kumar himself, who was 94 at the time, for verification. Ram Kumar had told him the works were indeed his. Then, exactly three days later, the artist died."

Kogo is a device-app combo which leverages Artificial Intelligence, enabling you to track your journey and create multimedia travel stories

PRAVEEN SUDEVAN

We (two other journalists and I) are in transit from Jodhpur to Khimsar. A two-hour, 100-kilometre ride. The sky has changed from glimmering golden orange to purplish black. After crossing centuries-old forts and temples, we are on a barren, almost empty highway. Just a few dhabas, fuel stations and dirty-green thorny plants to look at from the car window. The phone, to preserve charge, has been switched off. A prolonged period of inactivity, the lack of interesting sights, the near-constant speed and the full-blast AC of the vehicle cause torpor. Which is when we decide it is the best time for a chai break.

The hot and spicy moong dal pakoras served with fried green chilli at the Nagori Cold Drinks tea stall might not be world famous. But it is now one of my favourite snacks. With the magnificent forts and the spectacular sand dunes of Khimsar, I will also cherish the small tea stall in Bawari during my two-day stay in Rajasthan. And, thanks to Kogo, I can locate this little-known roadside stall and suggest its moong dal pakora.

Kogo, launched in January, is a device-app combo that enables you to minutely track your road trips and effortlessly create multimedia travel stories with them. The soapbar-sized, octagonal gadget (KogoBOT) – which you can carry or attach to your vehicle – has a dedicated GPS and multiple sensors to map the journey. And, the KogoApp takes the data captured by the device and uses Artificial Intelligence to create stories of your travels.

Origin story

Raj K. Gopalakrishnan and Praveer Kochhar conceptualised Kogo during one of their many annual trips to Spiti Valley. "We were coming back from the Sangla Valley," says Praveer, "And, we were arguing about the location of a place where we had some amazing Maggi with chicken on our previous trip. We spent about an hour-and-a-half trying to zero-in on the place but we couldn't. That is when we were thought, 'We travel so much. So,

A travelogue bot for the roadtripper

why can't we log these things?"

What is the need for a new device when your phone can do it?

Praveer answers, "I have used a dozen tracking apps. A lot of these apps use the phone's GPS. For long-duration trips, you need to have the app running all the time in the foreground for the GPS to function. But if you have to use say, WhatsApp or Facebook, then, the apps that aren't being used go to the background." In an effort to reduce power consumption, the latest versions of Android limit background apps to receive location updates only a few times every hour, which reduces the mapping accuracy.

Secondly, the KogoBOT is a powerhouse. It can last up to seven days on a single full charge, and save up to 10 days of data even when there is no network.

Praveer's third reason is privacy. "We foresee that permanent taking of location from mobile phones is going to be completely absent. It might even happen within the next year. It would be infringing on your privacy if your phone is constantly sending data. The beauty of Kogo is you can switch it off whenever you want."

When does the tracking begin and end on Kogo? "The tracking happens only after you start a trip on the app and are moving. When you are stationary for 20 seconds, the device goes into sleep, so it can conserve battery. The device's vibration sensor knows when you are moving, so, it wakes up and starts tracking again." Once you end the trip, the device – if it is on and moving – sends what Praveer calls "location pings" once in three minutes. And, it stops tracking when switched off.

The KogoApp is a work in progress. It, for instance, doesn't have enough photo or video-editing options. Video streaming is often slow. The destination can't be changed after the trip starts.

Stuck on you The KogoBOT is a soapbar-sized, octagonal device that can be attached to your vehicle • SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

What is in store?

Praveer promises significant additions to the app in the next few months. "You will have the option to discuss a trip with other users. The second thing is: you will be able to book experiences on the app. For example, we have partnered with Homestays of India, which has over 100 properties across India."

The KogoBOT, priced ₹7,749 (including a one-year subscription of the KogoApp as an introductory offer), caters mainly to regular road-trippers – occasional travellers might consider it an expensive option. Praveer, however, reckons this niche audience is sufficient for Kogo's growth.

"In India, we identified about 1.3 crore serious travellers. Our aim for the next three years is to reach 300,000 of them and 450,000 outside India." Kogo's targeting to cover a million kilometres within a year, for which the company has partnered with JAWA Motorcycle Company to cover 3,00,000 kilometres.

"This is just the start," says Praveer.

The writer was in Jodhpur at the invitation of Kogo.

Formula One driver Lewis Hamilton and footballer Lionel Messi were declared joint winners of the prestigious Laureus World Sportsman of the Year Award at a glittering ceremony on Monday.

The Laureus Sporting Moment Award (2000-2020) public fan vote was won by Sachin Tendulkar. Voted by sports fans around the world, the Award celebrated moments from the past two decades where sport has unified people in the most extraordinary way.

Tendulkar, who was part of the victorious 2011 ICC World Cup-winning team, was carried on the shoulders by his teammates.

The victory could not have been more historic, as it was

India's first World Cup win on home soil and its second ever.

Sensational tie

Six-time Formula One World champion Hamilton and six-time FIFA World Player of the Year Messi were so close in terms of their achievements in 2019 that even the ultimate sporting jury, the Laureus World Sports Academy, could not split them, with the voting being tied for the very first time in the 20-year history of the Laureus Awards.

The duo pipped golfing great Tiger Woods, Kenyan marathoner Eliud Kipchoge, tennis legend Rafael Nadal and MotoGP champion Marc Marquez to the award.

The 2019 Rugby World Cup winner South Africa

won its second Laureus World Team of the Year Award, beating Jurgen Klopp's Liverpool and the US women's football team, among others.

The memory of Siya Kolisi, South Africa's historic first black Test rugby captain, lifting the Webb Ellis Trophy in Yokohama, was an iconic moment in sport. The team's victory united communities back in South Africa, and was proof of sport's ability to change the world. The winners were revealed as sportsperson gathered together to be part of the most important annual awards ceremony, this year celebrating the 20th anniversary of Laureus.

The event was hosted by actor Hugh Grant and the legends of sport, past and present, were treated to enter-

Chasing one rabbit at a time, says Kipchoge

STAN RAYAN
BERLIN

He safely skirted the shoes issue and did not specify when he would run a sub-two hours marathon under approved conditions and with the World Athletics' approved footwear but on Monday Olympic champion Eliud Kipchoge spoke fondly about the rabbits he was chasing in life.

"I always say, I'm chasing one rabbit at a time. And the rabbit I'm chasing, as we are sitting here now, is the London Marathon (on April 26). So, after London Marathon, I will tell you about the next rabbit," said the Kenyan, in reply to a query from The Hindu here on Monday.

World record in London? So, can we expect a World record in London?

"Not at all but you can expect a good race, a fruitful race and a race which will get the fans up," said the 35-year-old.

He said the Nike AlphaFly shoes, with which he made history becoming the first marathoner to break the two-hour barrier in Vienna in October and which forced the world body to bring in new regulations for shoes because it felt that they gave the athletes an unfair advantage, were good.

"I think the shoes are good, the shoes I used were extremely cool," said the 35-year-old.

But the World Athletics have not been approved them, isn't it?

"Anyway, you can check with Nike. But I think they are good," said Kipchoge.

Freedom

Despite being the world's best, Kipchoge is a soft-spoken man, almost whispering his answers. He felt running gave him freedom and that is why one often sees him smiling while finishing a marathon.

"They say running is the only place where you can get freedom. So, when you see me smiling, you know that I'm free in this world. I'm really exercising this freedom when I'm running."

He explained that running in teams back home gave him strength. "The team is what gives me strength. The team is what makes me run as fast and forceful. Without the team, I can tell you nothing will happen."

Australia will be favourite down under: Waugh

STAN RAYAN
BERLIN

When Sachin Tendulkar points out someone as the cricketer who reminds him of himself, there is bound to be a lot of interest on the player. But former Australian captain Steve Waugh does not think Marnus Labuschagne could turn out to be someone like Tendulkar though he is very impressed with 25-year-old.

"Maybe he's trying to put him off by saying so. I don't think so but look, Sachin has got every right to say that."

"Maybe he saw something, in my opinion, his temperament or the way he goes about his batting," said Waugh on the sidelines of the 20th Laureus World Sports Awards celebrations here.

"He has appetite for runs and tries exceptionally hard. I was really impressed with him when he stood out at the Ashes. He wanted to make a difference, he wanted to be the next player to do well."

"He came a long way from the back of the pack... 12 months ago he was just in the top 26 players in Australia, now he is the fourth-ranked Test batsman in the world. So, it's been an incredible transformation."

Was he trying to brush away the pressure on Labuschagne? With Tendulkar's praise, the spotlight will be on Labuschagne, who recently won Australia's Player-of-the-Year award, as India travels down under towards the end of the year for a four-match Test series.

India has had beaten Australia 2-1 for its first-ever Test series win down under early last year, but Waugh felt the Aussies would start favourites this time.

Knowledge of pitches

"Australia will be the favourite because we are playing in Australia and we know the pitches well and the day-night Test is something reasonably new."

"I like the way Virat Kohli is taking that challenge. If you want to be the best side in the world, you have to win away from home as much as you can," he said.

"As you said they won the series last time... you can't take anything away from India but the fact is, we did not have two of our best batsmen last time and now Labuschagne has come out of nowhere."

"Our bowling attack is settled and there are no weaknesses in the Australian side. India does not have weaknesses too; so it's going to be potentially a great series."

"India has the best fast bowling attack in India. When they are playing in India they are best attack in the world. When cricket is played in Australia, I think Australia is the best fast bowling attack in the world," he said.

Slight edge

"So, when they come to Australia, I think we will have a slight edge. And if we go to India, India will have a slight edge."

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

The void left by legends such as Mithali Raj and Jhulan Goswami is not easy to fill, India captain Harmanpreet Kaur said on Monday but also asserted that her young side had grown substantially to be a top contender for this month's women's T20 World Cup.

The average age of India's squad in Australia is 22.8 with Harmanpreet being among the seasoned ones.

"We already miss the experience they shared with us, but these young girls are showing their talent and ability," said the 29-year-old, speaking at the captains' media day at Taronga Zoo here.

The ICC Women's T20 World Cup will open with a clash between India and defending champion and hosts Australia in Adelaide on February 21.

"In the last two years I've gone from being the youngest to one of the oldest in the team," she said. "They never show that they're young, they can always do what we expect of them. The team is looking in really good shape and showing what they can do with extra responsibility," she said.

She is still not over the disappointment of missing the ODI world title in 2017 and Harmanpreet said the T20 World Cup trophy would go a long way in making up for that debacle.

"Our team is growing day by day, everyone is looking so positive," Harmanpreet said. "It's going to be very big if we win, I was very surprised at all the reaction from 2017. My parents didn't tell me, they didn't want us to feel the pressure."

Reward to be reaped

She is well aware what a long run in an ICC tournament can do for her country. "If we win the World Cup, there's no doubt things will change. That tournament would bring a lot of confidence to the team."

Odisha – keeping the momentum going

Coach Parida wants his boys to target semi first, then final

RANJI TROPHY

V.S. ARAVIND
CHENNAI

Odisha has qualified for the Ranji Trophy quarterfinals after a gap of three years following a draw against Jharkhand. It was a remarkable outing for the Subhranshu Senapati-led side which finished second in Group C (38 points) behind Jammu & Kashmir.

This achievement wouldn't have been possible without the guidance of former domestic batting stalwart and current coach Rashmi Ranjan Parida.

Moment of pride

"We aimed to progress to the Elite Group A & B and to achieve that we had to be among the top two. That was the aim that the boys had and finally we are there," Parida told Sportstar from Bhubaneswar.

"It's a moment of pride and we are happy with our achievement. Having said that, we aim to reach the semis and then the final."

Odisha began its season with three straight wins against Chhattisgarh, Services and Uttarakhand.

The team next salvaged a draw against Tripura and then pulled off a stunning one-wicket away win against Haryana.

"Winning the first three games gave us the momentum. It was a massive boost and beating Haryana in Rohilkhand was very satisfying. We knew we had the arsenal to win games," Parida stated.

However, in its next fixture, Odisha suffered a four-wicket loss at home to J&K before bouncing back to beat Assam and Maharashtra.

"It's a long season and I knew we would suffer a loss here and there.

"But we never allowed the momentum to slip away and came back strongly. It's been an incredible journey and credit goes to the entire team. There were individual flashes of individual brilliance, but overall it was a team effort," he said.

The 2016 knockout

During the 2016 quarterfinal, Odisha lost to Gujarat, with rival opener Samit Gohel scoring an unbeaten 359 and breaking the world record for the highest score by an opener carrying his bat in first-class cricket. Gujarat qualified for the semifinal based on first-innings lead.

Asked how his side is preparing for the high-pressure match, Rashmi said, "Look it's all about mental strength and the boys are ready for it. Except for Basant, Biplob and Govind the rest haven't played a knockout.

"So it's a chance for them to express themselves and create something special. Bengal will come hard but we are ready for it. Quarterfinal has its charm."

BCCI withholds subsidy to DDCA

VIJAY LOKAPALLY
NEW DELHI

The Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) has decided to withhold the annual subsidy to Delhi and District Cricket Association (DDCA). The move was expected following complaints by some important members of the unit.

"We have stopped the subsidy," BCCI president Sourav Ganguly revealed to The Hindu. Ganguly was here to attend the Apex Council meeting where it was also decided to appoint an ad-hoc committee to administer DDCA.

DDCA had been in the news for all wrong reasons for long. It was put under an administrator twice – Justice (Retd.) Mukul Mudgal and Justice (Retd.) Vikramajit Sen – before Rajat Sharma took charge following the elections.

After Rajat resigned, the DDCA remains embroiled in increasing controversy related to administration.

The support staff of the Delhi teams (senior and junior) have not been paid for more than four seasons now. "Some coaches were paid by Mudgal and Sen administration because they could produce the contracts. But many former players have served as coaches and selectors without being handed a contract," said a former player who has sent many representations to claim his dues.

According to a senior DDCA official, the dues have been withheld for lack of clarity as far as terms of payment are concerned. "How do we know who is to be paid what amount? There are no contracts," he insisted, "the only way out is for the Board to take a decision."

Various members of the DDCA have, meanwhile, sought intervention from the Board, pointing out incidents of financial irregular

'Interested in athletics, but will focus only on kambala for a month'

Kambala jockey Srinivas Gowda, who was invited for trials by the Sports Authority of India after rocketing to fame on the social media, visited the SAI South Centre here on Monday night.

The 28-year-old did not take part in any trials or assessments, however, having stated that he would like to focus on his kambala commitments for another month.

"After that, he has to go through a period of conditioning. He may not be in that kind of a condition where we can straightaway take him into the track," said Capt. (Indian Navy) Ajay Kumar Bahl, Senior Director, SAI South Centre.

While admitting that success in kambala – a traditional sport in the south-western parts of Karnataka where competitors race buffaloes through paddy fields – did not automatically mean success in athletics, the Director stated that the SAI was ready to assess him and offer any support required.

The dynamics of both are different. Here he is running barefoot, and there is a bull he needs to hold and run. Running on the track is a different ballgame.

"But all the facilities at SAI will be there to back him," he said.

C. Harish, athletics coach at the SAI, felt Gowda's athletic talent could not be dismissed out of hand. "Anand Shetty (former international sprinter) had also come from a kambala background. Many athletes have played different sports in their childhood before going on to succeed in something else. All sports are interlinked. We cannot say it's not possible. It need not be 100m alone. He seems to have strength and endurance," he pointed out.

It was a whirlwind day for Gowda who, in the afternoon, met the Karnataka Chief Minister at the Vidhana Soudha, where a cash prize of ₹3 lakh was announced.

"The credit does not belong to me; it belongs to the buffaloes and the owner of the buffaloes who took good care of them. That's why they could go so fast," he told reporters.

Gowda was asked if he was interested in taking part in athletics. "I'm interested, but for a month I will be focusing only on kambala," he said.

Manu undeterred by high expectations

Says it means that people have faith in her and vows to do well in Tokyo

SHOOTING

KAMESH SRINIVASAN
NEW DELHI

Manu Bhaker has a disarming smile, and honesty dances in her eyes. There is mischief and charm, when she is not training her eyes on the target with a pistol in hand.

And when she gets into the mood to have a conversation, the way she did the other evening, with Rushdee Warley, the CEO of the Inspire Institute of Sport in Vijayanagar, where the shooters had a training camp, Manu can really bring the roof down.

Quite overwhelmed by her spontaneous response and teasing sense of humour, the CEO had no hesitation in saying, "we would build one for you," when Manu said that the place had everything except a shooting range.

Experience

"I want to see and experience it for myself first. Please don't tell me anything about Tokyo," said Manu, quite keen to retain the suspense about the atmosphere of her maiden Olympics.

Having dominated the world right from winning the Youth Olympics gold in 2018, to World Cup gold medals, apart from sweeping all the international mixed air pistol gold medals in 2019, Manu has every chance to compete in three events.

But she shows great maturity when queried on the prospects.

"Whatever opportunity I get, I will do the best for my country. It may be three events, two or one. I love the sport and I love to compete. It is the federation that will decide," said Manu, with admirable maturity and composure.

Counter

She takes one's breath away by countering the projection about the possible pressure of expectations.

"The high expectations means that people have faith in you. They support you. They have seen us dominate the world."

"I like it. I will genuinely try my best," she said, eyes twinkling with pride.

Interestingly, Manu had got into shooting only after the last Olympics in Rio in 2016.

"People think that I have just come up and started shooting great. I have trained hard, from 8 a.m. to 8 in the evening. Nothing comes easy. I know competing in the Olympics is a dream of every athlete. I have worked hard on a lot of things."

"There is no need to change at this stage."

"The 10-metre is the mother of all shooting. So, my 25-metre gets the support from it, especially the precision stage. I train duelling for about two hours," said Manu, as she summed up her preparations and approach to the Tokyo Games.

Guru Jaspal Rana

Manu owes a lot to guru Jaspal Rana, not just for her shooting, but for mentoring her personality.

"He is always there for me. I have the trust to ask him anything, not necessarily about my shooting."

"He has vast experience and knowledge. He is passing that to me. He maintains strict discipline," Manu said.

It is Manu's 18th birthday today. The first year student of Lady Shriram College in the Capital, has the skill and resolve to make the country proud in the Olympics.

Happy birthday Manu! It is just a new beginning to an inspirational journey.

Four-year ban for Dahiya

Penalised for sending a proxy for the dope test

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
NEW DELHI

In a "landmark" decision by the Anti-Doping Disciplinary Panel of the NADA, Haryana's Amit Dahiya has been banned for four years for evading dope sample collection by sending a proxy during the National Javelin Open Championships last year.

Dahiya had finished third with a best throw of 68.21m in the event held at Sonipat on April 16, 2019. After the event, the 21-year-old Dahiya was asked by the National Anti-Doping officials to furnish his dope samples but he instead sent another person to the collection room.

In a landmark decision by the National Anti Doping Agency, javelin thrower Amit Dahiya has been penalised with intentionally evading sample collection and trying to cheat anti-doping officials during the 2nd National Javelin Throw Open Championship 2019 held at SAI Center, Sonipat," the NADA said.

It said that this was the first time the NADA has taken cognisance of a case in which the athlete evaded sample collection and successfully proceeded against him under the prescribed provisions.

No Chinese participation in Asian wrestling

The 40-member contingent denied visas due to health concerns, explain WFI officials

UTHRA GANESAN
NEW DELHI

China will not be present at the senior Asian wrestling championships starting here on Tuesday and the biggest gainers will be the Indian women.

Although there has been no official word from the government, the 40-member Chinese contingent had not been provided visas till late Monday evening with no further development on the issue. China has been facing an epidemic outbreak of the novel Coronavirus.

The WFI officials admitted that health concerns had led to the decision.

'No risks'

"Several participating nations had asked for clarity on China's participation and had even expressed reservations about coming in case the Chinese wrestlers were entered."

"It is a global concern right now and we cannot take any risks with the health of the wrestlers. Sports is, after all, meant for fitness," a senior WFI official explained.

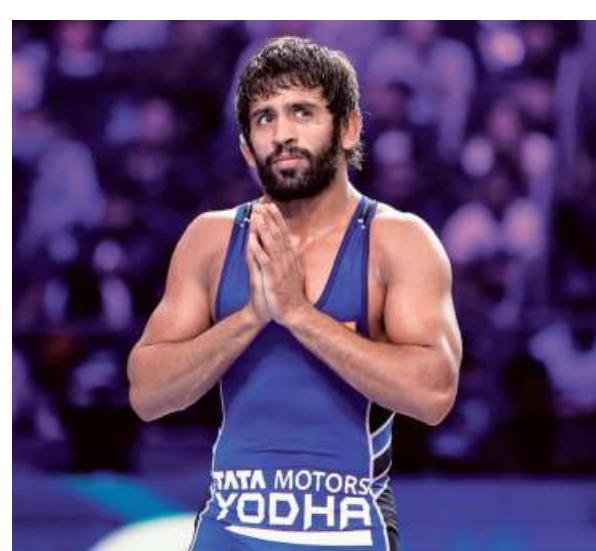

Asked whether this might lead to the United World Wrestling (UWW) taking exception, the official denied it.

"It would have been an issue if we had denied Pakistan, but that is sorted. This is a health concern not just for us but the entire world right now. It is an exceptional situation," he said.

Rijiju clarifies
Sports Minister Kiren Rijiju insisted that it was purely a health concern.

"As part of the Olympic Charter, we cannot deny visas to anyone for a competition."

"But there are separate provisions for health or technical issues," he clarified.

Pakistan, meanwhile, is expected to arrive on Tuesday with its four freestyle wrestlers and two officials.

Biggest attraction
The biggest attraction, however, will undoubtedly be the World No. 2 and India's biggest Olympic hope Bajrang Punia in the 65kg freestyle competition.

Given that the event would be a ranking tournament for the upcoming Olympic Qualifier and would affect the seeding for the latter, a good performance here would help the defending champion get an easier outing.

A final decision will be taken in the coming week.

"Obviously, we hope we get it but Kazakhstan had successfully hosted the World Championships last year. Let's see," said a WFI official.

Tuesday's schedule:

Greco-Roman: 55kg, 63kg, 77kg, 87kg, 130kg.

Twin challenge for Indian basketball team

Skipper Bhriguanshi plays down the absence of key players

SPORTS REPORTER

BENGALURU

The Indian men's basketball team will need to tackle the twin challenge of missing key personnel in Amjyot Singh Gill and Arshpreet Bhullar and a modified qualification procedure ahead of the first round of FIBA Asia Cup 2021 qualifiers starting this Friday.

Back-to-back games

Drawn alongside Bahrain, Iraq and Lebanon, India will begin its campaign by taking on Bahrain and Iraq in back-to-back away games without Amjyot and Arshpreet owing to the disciplinary proceedings initiated against the duo last December.

Satnam Singh is out following a doping violation.

K. Govindaraj, President,

Basketball Federation of India, stated that it will be a "couple of months" before they return.

Asia's flagship event has also undergone a change. Biennial before, the Asia Cup will be held once in four years starting from the 2021 edition.

Earlier, teams used to qualify through their respective regional championships; India, in 2017, secured the berth by winning the South Asian Championship.

New format

Under the new format, 24 teams from across Asia have been drawn into six groups. Each team will play a double round-robin format (home and away) across three wins and losses spread over a year.

nament to determine the last four members that will complete the 16-team roster.

"It's tough preparation wise," said skipper Vishesh Bhriguanshi. "Now we will play two matches. The next matches are after eight months."

"What if something happens to some player? The Federation is trying to get us some tournaments, matches in between. But it is a big gap."

But the 28-year-old played down the absence of key players. "There will be some effect. But we have practised, planned and trained for two months without them. So it doesn't matter."

Golden form

Bhriguanshi also stated that the aim was to recapture the golden form of 2015-16 when India made the quarterfinals of the 2015 Asia Cup and finished seventh in the 2016 FIBA Asia Challenge.

The team:

Vishesh Bhriguanshi (Capt.), Muin Bek Hafeez, Jodinder Singh, P.V. Sivakumar, Sahil, Jagdeep Singh, Prashant Rawat, Aravind Annadurai, Principal Singh, Amritpal Singh, Amaan Sandhu, Arvind Arumugam.

Inter Milan dropped from top spot to third – three points behind the eight-time reigning champion – after falling to just its second defeat of the season.

"We need to stay humble and focused but I'm sure we will succeed. We have nothing to lose," said Inzaghi.

"We know that Juventus and Inter are two great teams and we will do everything to fight to the end, knowing that it will be very difficult."

Fiery clash

In a fiery clash in the Stadio Olimpico defender Ashley Young broke through just before the break with his first Serie A goal for Inter Milan after his move from Manchester United.

A Stefan de Vrij foul on Ciro Immobile allowed the Serie A top scorer to slot in his 26th goal in 24 games this season, five minutes after the break. Sergej Milinkovic-Savic snatched the winner after 69 minutes amid confusion in front of goal.

In Sardinia, Napoli got back to winning ways with a Dries Mertens' 65th-minute goal sealing a 1-0 success over Cagliari.

The results: La Liga: Real Madrid 2 (Kroos 52, Sergio Ramos 65-pen) drew with Celta Vigo 2 (Smolov 7, Santa Minu 85); Sevilla 2 (Ocampos 15, Suso 80) drew with Espanyol 2 (Embarba 35, Wu Lei 50
